ROOSEVELT IS GAINING IN HEALTH

After Critical Illness of Jungle Fever Along the River Rio Duvida

DELIRIOUS FIVE DAYS

Begging His Companions to Go and Leave Him to His Fate—Menaced With Starvation in Exploration of New Stream.

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, May 20.—Those who saw Theodore Roosevelt on his return yesterday from Brazil realized from his appearance that he had passed through a trying time. Though his cheeks were bronzed and his grip firm, showing a return of health, there were many traces of the hardships he had endured in his 600-mile journey down the Rio Duvida, the unknown river he explored.

The trip from Para, which began May 7, did much to restore Colonel Roosevelt. It gave back to him 25 or 30 of the 55 pounds he had lost and the jungle festers from the ankle to the knee of his right leg were nearly all healed.

"I have been very ill with jungle fever," he said, on his arrival, "but I'm all right now. I feel fine."

It was from April 5 to April 15, it was learned that Col. Roosevelt was gravely ill. Other members of his party, including his son Kermit, were ill at that time, but the Colonel himself was so sick and weak that there were days when he wandered yards of travel marked the measure of his endurance.

For five days Colonel Roosevelt was delirious, with 105 degrees of fever. Under it he begged his companions, it is said, to go and leave him where he lay in the jungles.

Actual starvation menaced the party during the last of the six days that were taken up by the journey down the Rio Duvida. The pinch was sharper far, it was said, than was indicated by the leader's declaration that they had to hold themselves to half rations.

At Manaos, the point of the expedition's return to civilization, Colonel Roosevelt was still so ill that he had to be helped aboard the steamer Dunstan, on which he traveled to Para. During the four days of his stay on the Dunstan he was confined to his bed. Not until the first day of his stopover at Para did he show the improvement which has continued since.

Colonel Roosevelt plans to rest quietly at his Oyster Bay home until Thursday when he will go up to the village from Sagamore Hill to meet his neighbors. It will be a holiday for the town and the Colonel will probably deliver a brief address of thanks for his neighbors' welcome. Next Tuesday he plans to go to Washington to address the National Geographic society on the results of his Brazilian expedition and on May 30 he will probably start for Europe to attend, in Madrid, the wedding of his son Kermit.

HARD POLITICAL CAMPAIGN AHEAD SAYS ROOSEVELT

(Associated Press Telegram)
Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 20.—Twelve hours after Theodore Roosevelt returned from South America he was back today in the thick of politics. He was up early and as soon as breakfast was over he was hard at work picking up the threads where he dropped them seven months ago.

ROCKEFELLER, JR., RETURNS TO WORK AFTER VACATION

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, May 20.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has returned to work after 20 days spent at the country estate of his father at Pocantico hills. Since May 1, when he went into retirement most of his "tormentors" under the leadership of Upton Sinclair have been silenced, several by being put in jail. Sinclair is in Colorado and Marie Ganz and the Rev. Bouck White are serving sentences on Blackwell's island, the latter for having broken up the services at the Calvary Baptist church ten days ago. "Mother" Jones alone remains in the lecture field and nightly denounces the Rockefeller interests in the Colorado coal districts.

Mr. Rockefeller's secretary said yesterday that he was making no investigation of conditions in Colorado. He was only a minority stockholder in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, it was said, and whatever recommendations he could offer might not influence the officials of the company in dealing with the miners.

Negro Shook Dice With Indian, Won His Daughter; A Bloody Race Riot Ensues

(Associated Press Telegram)

New Orleans, May 20.—The United Fruit Company today was using its wireless in an effort to confirm a strange story of a race riot reported to have occurred on one of its plantations in Guatemala, in which it was reported sixty-four negroes and probably 100 Indians were killed.

Smoldering race hatred of the native Indians for negroes, inflamed by one of the negroes winning the Indian girl, Nazada, from her father at dice, and his refusal to sell her back to a native, is reported to be the cause of the trouble. The story came to New Orleans by mail.

The negro, Clarence Williams, had been working on the Tezuahena farm, one of a number of plantations the United Fruit Company operates in the Montagua river district. According to the story, he had incurred the hatred of many of the Indians because of his prowess with dice. In a game recently which Nazada's father participated he won all the old peon's money and then, Guatemalan fashion, the old man wagered his daughter. He lost. As is customary among these Indians the girl did not object to her part of the transaction and was taken to the shanty of the American negro. As the story goes, Christophero Surrello, a half breed boss of a neighboring farm had wanted Nazada as a wife for his son and was incensed when he learned that she had become the property of the negro.

According to Guatemalan Indian custom the father of the girl was eliminated from the matter by his unlucky cast of the dice so Surrello entered into negotiations with the negro. He offered him thirty pesos for the girl. The Negro refused. Soon after Williams left his work May 9, three men appeared at the shanty. It is said they were Surrello, a peon named Pedro and a half breed.

Williams had occasion to go to the shanty a few hours later.

Tied to a nearby tree was his Indian girl mutilated with knives. Just before she died she told him who had assailed her. Arming himself with a revolver it is declared he began a search for Surrello, found him and shot him to death. Then he killed Pedro and the half breed. All that night there was fighting between the negroes and Indians. Religious services were held in a little church as usual the next morning. When the Indians came from church the negroes were enmeshed nearby and opened fire on them. Williams and twelve of his followers were killed. Many Indians were slain. Fighting was kept up for many days, according to the story reaching here, the bodies of sixty-four negroes were found. Just how many Indians were killed probably never will be known.

Former President of the New Haven Resumes His Testimony This Morning

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, May 20.—Interest in the remarkable story being related to the interstate commerce commission by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad showed no abatement when Mr. Mellen resumed his testimony.

Before the hour of beginning the proceedings the hearing room was well filled with spectators who waited interestedly the arrival of the principals in the case. Mr. Mellen arrived early accompanied by his counsel, J. W. H. Crim.

Chief Counsel Folk said, as he entered the hearing room that it was the expectation that Mr. Mellen would be on the stand throughout the day, and perhaps longer.

It was 10:25 o'clock when Mr. Mellen finally took the stand, after a few minutes' conference with his counsel. He was not quite as pale as on yesterday. Commissioners McChord and Daniels were at the commission table.

When was a loan of $100,000 made to Haskell of the Boston Herald," began Mr. Folk.

"Two years or more before notes of Haskell were sold to Mr. Billard," replied Mr. Mellen.

Asked to explain the transaction, he said:

"I had known Mr. Haskell some years and I laid the case before the finance committee and they agreed to the loan."

"Was the fact that he was owner of the Boston Herald an inducement to make the loan?" Mr. Folk asked.

"It was certainly not a bad inducement."

"What was pending in the Massachusetts legislature at the time of the loan to Haskell?"

"There was always something pending in the Massachusetts legislature."

"Did you have anything to do with the re-organization of the Boston Herald?" asked Mr. Folk.

"At the request of Mr. Hemingway I attended a meeting at which the re-organization of the Herald was considered. I paid no special attention to the matter. I was there as an observer. I took no part in the proceedings. I met at times, Mr. Choate and Mr. O'Brien, the editor of the paper. In course of a year I attended perhaps three meetings of the board of the paper."

"I never was in the Boston Herald office. The meetings I attended were held in the Union club. I did not attend these meetings except to observe the proceedings."

Mr. Mellen said that he knew little of the details of the work of Vice President Byrnes.

"Did he spend money to influence legislation?" asked Mr. Folk.

"I am sure not," said the witness.

"Do you recall the prayer from the hill?"

"Yes, in general, but I know little about it."

"Did you pay for it?"

"I fancy I have to pay for all prayers in my behalf."

"Were a large number of newspapers carried on the payroll of the New Haven?" asked Mr. Folk.

"I never heard of a large number of newspapers on our payroll. I never heard of some papers until I saw them mentioned in the testimony of Vice President Byrnes."

"Did you know the Boston Republic published advertisements and then sent the bill to the New Haven?"

"Yes, I read Mr. Byrnes' testimony along that line."

"Did the fact that Mayor Fitzgerald was the owner of the publication, have anything to do with this?"

"It was certainly not an obstacle."

Mr. Folk read the minutes of a meeting of the directors of the New Haven, held in October, 1909, at which a report of the contract with John L. Billard regarding the transaction in 109,948 shares of Boston & Maine was ordered approved. Mr. Billard, in previous testimony, was said to have made $2,750,000 out of the transaction.

Mr. Mellen said that a part of the minutes which made it appear that the New Haven had made a profit of $1,649,220 was incorrect, but that a clause to the effect that Billard was only to get a commission was correct.

Mr. Mellen further said that he had many contracts, not only with Mr. Billard, but with others, which he had not submitted to the board of directors.

"What authority did you have to make a contract with Mr. Billard involving payment by the New Haven of a tremendous profit on a stock transaction?"

"I had absolute authority. I am quite certain that the report which we are discussing is erroneous. It suggests the getting of an assignment from Mr. Billard of profits already in the hands of the New Haven. That is ridiculous. The report is in error—an error made, perhaps, by the secretary."

THREE DEAD IN TENEMENT FIRE; ANOTHER DYING

(Associated Press Telegram)

St. Louis, May 20.—Three persons are dead, a third is dying and several others are nursing severe burns as the result of a fire which early today destroyed a three-story frame building which had been occupied by three families. The dead are: Mrs. Rebecca Soltz, 24 years old, and her 3-year-old son.

A daughter, 4 years old, who was trapped with her mother and the little boy, in a middle room on the third floor, still was alive when firemen reached them. The little girl was rushed to the city hospital, but physicians held out little hope for her recovery.

Samuel Soltz, the husband, escaped from the flames by leaping across a six foot airway into the next house. Soltz was cut off from his wife and children by an intervening room which was a roaring furnace when the family awoke. He remained in the building until the greater part of his room was afire and jumped to safety only after he had inhaled some of the flames and severely burned his throat.

WILL KEEP A LOOK OUT FOR NEW COMET

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, May 20.—Astronomers at the United States naval observatory planned to maintain a sharp lookout tonight for the new comet reported traveling at tremendous speed through northwestern skies toward the star Capella. The comet first was seen four days ago by European observers. Moving eastward it was visible shortly after twilight through a large field glass, the European observers reported.

CIROFICI'S STATEMENT RULED OUT

Becker's Defense Is Hard Hit When They Are Not Allowed to Introduce

GUNMAN'S CONFESSION

In Which "Dago Frank" Declared Becker's Name Was Not Mentioned Until After Rosenthal's Murder Was Announced.

(Associated Press Telegram)

New York, May 20.—The confession that "Dago Frank" Cirofici made an hour before he went to the electric chair at Sing Sing will not help Charles S. Becker in his fight to prove his innocence of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, for which Cirofici and his three companions already have paid the penalty. The Supreme court, before which Becker is on trial for the second time, refused today to admit testimony dealing with this confession.

"Dago Frank," before he died, swore he had never heard the name of Becker mentioned until Rosenthal had been killed. The defense had planned to place upon the stand the sister of the dead gunman, the priest who accompanied him to the chair, the warden and the principal keeper at Sing Sing, to testify to the authenticity of this confession, but Justice Seabury's ruling defeated their intentions.

Becker's face fell when he heard the ruling.

The court held that evidence pertaining to the confession was not admissible because it was an incident that occurred after the murder.

In an effort to establish an alibi, counsel for the defense was prepared today to call several witnesses to support the testimony of Frederick Hawley, former newspaper reporter, whose direct examination was concluded with the adjournment of court yesterday. The cross examination that Becker answered his telephone on the morning of the murder, and could not have been near the scene as has been previously charged by witnesses for the state.

A conference last night attended by Becker, his wife, brother and counsel failed to determine whether the defendant would be called to the stand to tell his version of the murder and the charges of Jack Rose, Harry Vallon and Bridget Webber that he had ordered Rosenthal killed.

OTHER CITIES SHOULD FOLLOW THE NEW PLAN

(Associated Press Telegram)
Fort Wayne, Ind., May 20.—A squad of five patrolmen under the direction of Captain Richard Kelley, last night, arrested 22 vagrants who had camped in the outskirts of the city, branded each man by clipping a furrow through his hair with a pair of horse clippers, ordered them out of town and as they ran, "padded" each with a barrel stave. The vagrants were told that if captured before the clipped hair grew out they would be sent to the stone pile for 100 days. The tent and equipment of the camp was burned.

WILL ALLOW NO BLOCKADE OF TAMPICO

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, May 20.—That every effort will be made by the United States to maintain the port of Tampico free and open to commerce was declared today by Acting Secretary of the Navy, Roosevelt. While no definite orders had been issued, the acting secretary said it necessary steps would be taken to prevent a blockade by either Mexican federals or constitutionalists.

"This government," said Mr. Roosevelt, "is extremely anxious to keep the port of Tampico open to commerce. At present there is no cloud on the horizon which would lead us to believe that any effort will be made to close the port. But, if either the federalists or constitutionalists should try to close it, it would be obnoxious to this government and steps would be taken to prevent any obstruction. The first steps of course, would be through diplomatic channels."

Acting Secretary Roosevelt declared that no definite orders had been given either Admiral Badger or Admiral Mayo to keep the port of Tampico open by force.

DENISON'S NEW PRESIDENT.

DR. CLARK W. CHAMBERLAIN

Inaugural Exercises Were Impressive That Inducted New President Into Office

(Special to the Advocate.)

Granville, May 20.—Granville is historically rich, and the college town has been the scene of many famous gatherings, but on Wednesday for the first time, it witnessed the public installation of a president of Denison university, when Dr. Clark Wells Chamberlain was inaugurated as president. Perhaps never before has there been such a large gathering of notables in college life in the state of Ohio. Fourteen colleges and universities were represented and in addition there were twenty other professors from various educational centers throughout the country.

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning the procession assembled on the campus and the line of march arranged. Headed by the seniors in their caps and gowns, over 300 people filed down the hill to the Baptist church, where chapel services were held. Those in line were the various class men of the university, the trustees, the members of the faculty and the representatives from the various colleges and a great number of visitors.

Dr. R. S. Colwell, dean of the faculty, gave the scriptural reading and prayer was offered. Hymns opened and concluded the chapel services and the line of procession was again formed and all marched to the campus and thence to the south plaza. Here a large platform had been erected on which were placed chairs for the trustees, faculty and prominent visitors. Facing the platform had been placed benches to accommodate about 1,000 people. The inauguration ceremonies were opened by the entire assembly singing "Denison," and then a short prayer was said. President George Moor Peters of the board of trustees presented the charter to Dr. Chamberlain and delivered a discourse which embodied a history of the founding and growth of the college. Dr. C. W. Chamberlain then responded and congratulations were spoken by President W. H. Faunce, of Brown; President R. C. MacLaurin, of Boston Technical college; Prof. C. L. Williams of Denison University; President C. D. Curtin of the senior class, and Miss Marjory McCutcheon, of the senior class.

Dr. Chamberlain's inaugural address was congratulatory of the past history of Denison University, and prophetic of the greater things to be accomplished by this university and bespoke for himself hearty co-operation, not only of the undergraduate body, but the many alumni scattered throughout the United States, either in organized bodies or as individuals. Dr. Chamberlain spoke particularly of the generosity of the board of trustees which had made possible the successful administration of past presidents. There was in every feature of his communication, thus far held, an earnest of this policy, which would go far in aiding him to make his presidency one of pleasurable success.

Dr. Chamberlain was a former professor of physics at Vassar college and succeeded Dr. Emory W. Hunt, who became secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society. In connection with the inauguration the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon Richard C. MacLaurin, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Ernest F. Nichols, president of Dartmouth; W. H. P. Faunce, president of Brown; William E. Castle of Harvard, and the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. John F. Herget of Cincinnati.

At the close of the inaugural exercises dinner was served at 1 o'clock in the Swasey gymnasium. The guests at the dinner were the distinguished guests from the various colleges, the faculty and the alumni of Denison.

The day's program will conclude with the annual May Festival which will be given under the supervision of Karl Eschman, dean of the Conservatory of Music.

A feature of the inauguration ceremony was the fact that of all the invitations issued and various schools which were asked to participate, not one failed to have representatives present today, making the gathering one of the most complete representative educational assemblies probably ever held in the state.

FIRE CHARGED TO SUFFRAGISTS THREATENS KING

(Associated Press Telegram)

Aldershot, England, May 20.—A great brush fire declared by the authorities to have been the work of militant suffragettes encircled today the royal pavilion in Long Valley where King George and Queen Mary are in residence, in the center of a great army of British troops.

The entire camp was aroused before daybreak. Several battalions of infantry and regiments of cavalry turned out to fight the flames. Water is plentiful in the vicinity but the swords of the cavalymen proved a better means of extinguishing the fire as with them the men cut down and beat out the blazing undergrowth.

Suffragettes have shown great activity in the neighborhood since the king and queen arrived here.

GIRL CLAIMS SHE WAS HELD CLOSE PRISONER

(Associated Press Telegram)

Cleveland, May 20.—W. A. Mlynarczyk, 59, was arrested early today with a girl giving her name as Lydia Seinar, 20, after the girl had told detectives she had been kept for two months a prisoner in the man's home. The girl told the officers she came from her home in a small Pennsylvania town, to take a position with Mlynarczyk, on a paper he claimed to be publishing. Police found no trace of any such publication. The girl said she had not been allowed to communicate with her friends since she had been here.

UNION LEADERS RELEASED ON HABEAS CORPUS

(Associated Press Telegram)

Cincinnati, May 20.—Hearing on writs of habeas corpus granted counsel for David Ostend, David Fustel and Nathan Carl, officers of the garment workers union of this city, by which they were released from the county jail, has been set for Friday. The men were found guilty of contempt of court by Judge O. K. Nease, of the Superior Court and sent to jail yesterday. Later they were released on the habeas corpus writ.

MEDIATORS COMMENCE SESSIONS

At Niagara Falls to Settle Dispute Between the United States and Mexico

WELCOMED TO CANADA

President Wilson Will Receive News of Negotiations Over a Special Wire Between White House and Mission at Niagara.

(Associated Press Telegram)

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 20.—Everything was ready today for the opening of the mediation conference which under the guidance of Ambassador Dagama, of Brazil, and Ministers Naon, of Argentina, and Suarez, of Chile is to attempt to compose the differences between the United States and Mexico. The Mexican peace commissioners arrived early today from New York, while the American delegates reached here shortly before midnight. Minister Suarez was the last of the three South American mediators to reach the scene.

To welcome the visitors to Canadian territory, the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, delegated Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture and Senator Loughheed conservative leader, to come here from Ottawa. Their duties included visits of greeting to the mediators and to the American and Mexican delegates. The formal opening of the conference was set for three p. m. today. The program for today included nothing except the formal introductions, exchange of courtesies and adoption of plans for the conduct of the proceedings, such as are customary to the opening of an international gathering of this character.

The mediators were prepared to lay before the delegates from the two governments the rules and regulations which will govern during the proceedings. Ambassador Dagama, of Brazil, is ranking respectively among the three mediators, will be the leader in whatever action is taken but it has not yet been announced whether there will be a chairman formally chosen to preside over the sessions.

Justice Lamar of the United States supreme court and Frederick W. Lehmann, former solicitor general in the department of justice, the American delegates, with P. Perival Dodge, their secretarial adviser, are making their headquarters at a hotel in Niagara Falls, N. Y., on the American side.

The American delegates arrived here from the American side at 11:30 o'clock to pay their formal respects to the mediators.

Mr. Suarez, the Chilean minister had not reached here at that hour. He was supposed to be enroute from Washington, having left there yesterday. It was announced that he would not arrive in time for the opening session today but the other mediators would proceed without him.

While the question of the elimination of Huerta was believed to be paramount in the minds of the mediators it was realized by those closely in touch with the situation that the final solution of this problem would depend to a considerable extent to the nature of the powers conferred upon the Mexican delegates.

If the Mexican representatives were under instructions to refer the suggestions of the mediators to the Mexican capital for final decision the subject would probably be approached with less hopefulness of an immediate settlement.

In that event the Mexican representatives would conduct their negotiations on a basis equivalent to that of the American delegates who are known to be under instructions to report all issues that arise to the Washington government for final determination.

While Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann have been provided with almost instantaneous telephone connection with the White House and the office of Secretary Bryan over private wires the Mexicans must resort to cable communication subject to delays and interruptions which the disturbed conditions in Mexico have caused in the service. At the same time it is realized that if the Carranza forces should be successful in their campaign against Mexico City the communications of the delegates would be wholly at the mercy of Huerta's opponents and this fact probably would prevent the confidential exchange enjoyed by the Americans. It is felt that the Mexicans are handicapped in this respect and should it be disclosed that exchanges between Mexico and Niagara Falls are necessary to conclude any program agreed upon, the mediators would be willing to proceed slowly in order not to embarrass the Mexican representatives. While some observers here profess skepticism as to the immediate success (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3.)

Contest Editor's
Query Column

The Advocate will be glad to answer all legitimate questions regarding the contest through the Contest Editor's query column. Questions may be sent by mail or telephone but the answers will be printed in this column so that no contestant will have any advantage over another.

G. M.—It was not possible to fill your order yesterday but your coupons were mailed today.

M. M. E.—If you send 5 answers to a certain number of pictures you may send 4 or less to others. In other words, you may send from one to 5 solutions on different coupons for every picture in the list of 70.

F. F.—Your question was answered in yesterday's paper.

Mary M.—It is natural to suppose that a contestant who submits more than one answer will have a better chance than one who sends only 70 coupons. The rules make this plain. You can not send more than 350 or less than 70 coupons. You may submit 5 answers to each picture if you wish.

A. B. M.—Write your name and address upon the outside of your package but do not send it before June 1. You need not send it before June 10. If you use the mail be sure to attach sufficient postage.

Telephone—Fill out your coupons with pen, pencil or typewriter. Be sure to send with your solutions a large form sheet properly filled with names of the books, number of your coupons, your name and address.

A. R. T.—While a contest binder is not essential, you will find it a convenience. The coupons are to be fastened together in proper order and the binder will help you to arrange them in the right way.

Inquirer—You must obtain your coupons not later than June 5. Your solutions must be submitted not later than June 10. Please don't send them before June 1.

Several Contestants—We are glad indeed that you are pleased with the 10 day extension of the contest time limit. So far only one contestant has complained and even he didn't say why he objected. This little extension will enable you to get your solutions in order for submission and can not work injury to anybody. There will be no further extension.

Mr. Vernon—The Advocate received a remittance from Mr. Vernon yesterday but the envelope contained no name address or instructions. If the one who mailed the letter will advise us describing the form of remittance, etc., proper credit will be given.

Mrs. G. R. Utica—We can't tell you whether the man in picture 51 is white or black. He holds a pipe in his mouth. There is nothing to indicate whether the glass in No. 31

Does Tango
Reduce Flesh?

The violent movements of the modern dances naturally tend to keep flesh down, but they also tend to put an extra strain upon the vital organs, especially the heart, and so may damage the health more than assist it. Besides, many people do not dance, some people do not believe in dancing, and few people afford the time to dance enough to really accomplish reduction. A better way to dissolve fat is to use an easily and quickly without treatment, made at home as follows: Dissolve one ounce of Epsom salt in one pint of hot water and strain when cool. Take a tablespoonful before meals until weight is where you want it. No harm results from the use of the purgative treatment, and the flesh is left soft and the skin soft and smooth. Advertisement.

I have found the work helpful as well as entertaining and I thank you for your patience and kindness and also for your fair way of dealing with your patrons."

J. B. M.—The demand for coupons the past few days has been large, but your order has been filled and coupons mailed. It is not always possible to fill orders upon day of receipt.

M. B.—As you may obtain coupons as late as June 5 and may send your solutions as late as June 10, you have time to join in the contest now if you are prompt.

THE CAPE
COAT HAS COME TO TOWN

In the large Ready-to-Wear department of the T. L. Davies Dry Goods store, they are now displaying the new cape coats, the season's latest design from Paris, the fashion center of the world. These new garments are the forerunners of the fall styles and are being extensively worn in the larger cities. The two favorite models that are on display are those tailored from a small shepherd check and a large black and white plaid. They are creating quite a sensation, for they are not made up in a modified style, but embody the exact lines of the original design. The prices are exceptionally reasonable, the two favorite models selling at $10.00 and $12.50.

Women are appreciating the Davies store more and more every day, for it is there the new things are always found first. It is a satisfaction for any woman to know that she can buy right here in her own city, the exact styles the fashionable dressers are wearing in the larger cities. Women who like to keep pace with Dame Fashion will do well to see these charming new cape coats.

BIG GAIN SHOWN
BY TAX ASSESSOR

Thornville, O., May 20.—H. L. Drum, deputy tax assessor in Richland township, Fairfield county, in personal property alone shows in 1914 $435,720, and in 1913 $277,062, making a gain of $158,658 gain.

This taxing district under the new law shows a gain of over 21 per cent, as compared with 1913. In the three precincts last year three assessors and one deputy were employed in the canvass. Under the old law this year three land appraisers would have been added to the pay roll.

SHORT SESSION
NEWARK BOARD OF EDUCATION

In one of the shortest sessions in recent months, the board of education Tuesday night transacted a small amount of routine business, allowed bills, borrowed $2,500, and accepted an invitation from the Memorial day committee to take part in the parade.

E. V. Bowers was granted use of part of Central building, West Church street, for a summer school.

L. G. Miller, head of the commercial department in the High school, reported to the board that he would be ready at any time to take up his duties for the summer as playground supervisor.

The Newark Electric company presented its bill of $82.50 for wiring the Conrad school annex. It was reported that the work was done according to specifications, but had not actually been approved by state inspectors.

There was some discussion of the tax rate, but nothing definite was the outcome.

Kept the Opposition Busy.

The only instance known wherein an employee was paid by his employer for gambling occurred in New Orleans.

Walter Lamana, a child of wealthy Italians, was kidnapped, and the interest was intense throughout the Gulf coast country.

The staffs of the two leading morning dailies were engaged in "draw" after hours when the city editor of one of them was called out. He summoned a reporter.

"Get back in there and play at the paper's expense," he hissed. "Make it lively!"

The reporter raised 'em and hoisted 'em and lifted 'em for an hour.

Then the game was broken up by cries of "Extra! Extra!" and the staff of the other paper read with emotion that the body of the child had been found.

There was a ten dollar check from the editor in the reporter's envelope next pay day.—New York Tribune.

Blobs—"A cold in the head always makes me feel quarrelsome."

Slobbs—"Huh! If I had a cold in the head even my handkerchief and I come to blows."

CARNIVAL IS ATTRACTING BIG CROWDS

Big crowds thronged the Reindeer carnival grounds Tuesday night and all attractions did big business. Signor Bianco's Royal Italian band has proved a big attraction with its free concerts, while Buckskin Ben's cowboy musicians get the crowd and give some splendid programs. The motorcade drew immense crowds Tuesday night, and the daring riders gave genuine thrills as they rounded the saucer track at the rate of a mile a minute. Captain Stalker's wonderful exhibit of denizens of the sea bottom is an instructive show that Newarkites are appreciating. Captain Stalker's collection includes a monstrous octopus or devil fish with a thrilling history. He made his own collection of these unusual specimens during his eight years as a deep sea diver.

Clean, wholesome fun was the rule Monday and Tuesday nights, there was no disorder, and everybody got the Reindeer spirit of joy.

Ohio Happenings

When a westbound passenger train on the Ohio River & Western railroad struck a broken rail near Zanesville, two coaches and the baggage car were derailed. W. S. Lukens, traveling man of Zanesville and James McLaughlin of Byesville were injured.

Shannon Sabine and I. B. Hammond were arrested on Tuesday at Circleville and held on bond of $500 each for robbing Norfolk & Western Railroad cars.

With four bullets in her body Zelnitz, 22, was found dead by her father in her bedroom at her home in Medina on Tuesday. Police say the girl committed suicide.

The steel company in East Youngstown, has ordered all its employees to clear house in order to prevent an epidemic.

Raymond Spraley, 25, was killed Tuesday night three miles south of Dayton by a Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton passenger train. He was walking the tracks.

Maria Moore, colored and an ex-slave, aged 101 died at a Dayton hospital Tuesday. She was the last of a party of 20 slaves who were freed in 1863.

The motormen and conductors of the street car lines of Cleveland won a victory today in their fight for better working conditions. The schedule will be altered to arrange better hours for employees.

President King of Oberlin on Tuesday announced that the college had received a gift of $25,000. The name of the donor was not made public.

Burr Gould was arrested near Utica by Deputy Fish and Game Warden Penrose of Mt. Vernon and fined $50 and costs for dynamiting a stream to kill fish.

Mrs. John Fisher of Coshocton was seriously burned about the head and face at her home when a gas oven exploded.

Walter Beck, student at West Lafayette college near Coshocton, was badly injured when he was struck on the head by a heavy weight. He was practicing hammer throwing when the wire broke and the weight struck him on the head.

Suit for $13,577.44 was commenced in common pleas court in Coshocton on Tuesday by Joe L. McDowell, and Warner Penrose receivers of the Walbonding Bank company vs. Amos J. Solomon, H. A. Taylor and J. N. Braden.

Mary, the eighteen months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Naughty, a millright of Middletown, climbed out of her bed and fell from the second story window of the home to her death.

Honor, Morals and Health of Nation More Important Than Big Bank Accounts

By Secretary of Commerce WILLIAM C. REDFIELD

THERE are one hundred million of us in America, and I rather expect that the COUNTRY WAS MADE FOR THE WHOLE AND NOT FOR A PART OF US. If ten million of us are comfortable and ten million of us are miserable we need not expect to stay here a great while.

NATIONS PROSPER NOT BY WHAT THEY HAVE, BUT BY WHAT THEY ARE. IT IS MORE IMPORTANT THAT THE AMERICAN PEOPLE BE SOUND IN HONOR, IN MORALS AND IN HEALTH THAN THAT THEY HAVE BIG BANK ACCOUNTS. WE CAN'T AFFORD TO HAVE FACTORIES IN WHICH WE HAVE A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS GROUP AT THE TOP AND A SUFFERING AND MISERABLE GROUP AT THE BOTTOM—OUT IN THE SHOPS.

A nation is not well to do on an average basis if that average is midway between two terrible extremes. We must take from those that have that which they should not have and give in equal opportunity to those that have not.

Important Notice To Skin Sufferers

Try this New Remedy at Our Risk

We know the successful treatment of skin affections is difficult, and so much money is spent by sufferers without getting relief, that they are becoming skeptical and know not what to believe.

Our Generous Offer

Know, therefore, all persons who have any skin affection that we will supply them with our new and wonderful remedy—Saxo Salve—on the positive guarantee—that if it does not benefit them we will refund their money as cheerfully as we took it.

There is no remedy that will cure every disease—but there are some that we know to be honest, reliable, and of great curative value. Such is Saxo Salve. No Skin Sufferer should therefore hesitate to try Saxo Salve on this generous offer. We take all the risk and bear all the expense if Saxo Salve fails—but as it succeeds in over 90% of the cases our risk is not great after all.

Do not Give Up until you have Tried Saxo

PUBLIC LIBRARY BENEFIT

Mr. Howard Jones, who is to assume the role of Jack Absolute in "The Rivals," will be remembered as the inimitable "Hamlet" in the ludicrous burlesque given several years ago by amateur forces. Mr. Edward King, the Sir Anthony of "The Rivals," made a hit as "Romeo" in the same play, while Mr. Harold Kemp's quaint genius was portrayed as Macbeth and in the Joe Jefferson role of "Mr. Gaily" in "Lend Me Five Shillings" a later "Evening of Old English Comedy." In "The Rivals," he again essays a Jefferson favorite role in the famous Bob Acres.

Miss Phillips has been seen as Constance in "She Stoops to Conquer." In fact all the forces of the coming event have had experience and success behind the footlights in amateur dramatics. Miss Howard and Mr. Alexander in high school plays—Mr. Manning in the East, and Mr. C. W. Miller in numerous previous Monday Talk plays, while Mr. Walter Brown made a great hit in "Dolly Dimples" and the Elks Minstrels.

The seat reservation at Erman's drug store started out merrily this morning. Tickets 25c. On sale at Collins' drug store. No extra charge for reservation. High School Auditorium Friday, May 22, 8 p. m.

CELEBRATE THE ANNIVERSARY OF TRINITY HOUSE

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, May 20.—The four hundredth anniversary of the foundation of Trinity House, the world famous corporation of master mariners, chartered on May 20, 1514, by Henry VIII, was celebrated today.

Queen Elizabeth entrusted the corporation with what constitutes its chief modern duty by giving it authority to erect beacons and other marks for the guidance of navigators around the English coasts.

The history of Trinity House is the story of Britain's rise to the command of the seas. It was Trinity house which by a by-law in 1867 made a written agreement between the master and crew of a ship compulsory.

The management of the corporation is in the hands of thirteen elder brethren. Among the active and honorary elder brethren are the King, Premier Asquith, and First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill.

DEFINITE NEWS OF SILLIMAN IS STILL AWAITED

Secretary Bryan Gives Broad Scope to Consul Hanna to Pursue (Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, May 20.—Anxiety among officials here over the inability to get definite word from American vice-consul John R. Silliman who was reported released from prison at Saltillo more than a week ago, aroused the state department to renewed activity today in the missing American's behalf.

Evidencing his own apprehension, Secretary of State Bryan telegraphed to American Consul Hanna at Monterey asking if it would be feasible to send a messenger to Saltillo to determine if Silliman ever had been released.

Secretary Bryan's directions to Consul Hanna made it plain that he was to use his discretion in prosecuting his inquiries, as officials here realized there were many difficulties to be overcome in sending a representative of the Monterey consulate into the Saltillo district where the constitutionalists and federalists are in a death struggle for supremacy. Saltillo is about fifty miles from Monterey.

So persistent has been the silence for the last few days of the Mexican foreign office with regard to the American agents for actual information regarding Silliman that anxiety in many minds has turned to apprehension that Silliman, despite previous assurances of his safety from Huerta's agents may again have been held in custody. Some officials fear that he may have been killed. It is more than a week since the Mexican foreign office and the Brazilian minister in Mexico City declared that Silliman had been released and was enroute to the capital to be turned over to the Brazilian authorities for safe conduct to Vera Cruz. Captain Percy Willis of the coast artillery at Key West, notified secretary of war Garrison today by telegraph that he had obtained an affidavit from A. W. Bland, lately arrived from Vera Cruz declaring that Samuel Parks, the American soldier who wandered from the American lines at Vera Cruz had been executed.

According to Captain Willis, Bland talked with an acquaintance in Vera Cruz who saw the body of Parks and who declared that the young American, once shot by Mexican soldiers and that his body later was destroyed. The Willis dispatch was similar to others that had been received as rumors from General Funston, but the state department which had demanded from Huerta's foreign office an explanation of Parks' disappearance still is without any official reply.

General Funston in a supplementary report today on the return to the American lines of the two horses which Parks drove away when he disappeared said that the messenger who brought the horses from the Mexican lines made no mention of the fate of the American soldier.

War department officials are anxiously awaiting definite news of the battle in progress between federalists and constitutionalists in front of Saltillo.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

You Smoke a "Better" Tobacco —Why Not Smoke The Best?

THE tobacco you now smoke you consider "better tobacco than you ever smoked before." Naturally, you kept trying until you found a "better" one.

But it stands to reason that since there is a difference in tobaccos, you may be missing still greater pleasure in a still better smoke—in the BEST smoke, in fact.

Tuxedo is the best smoke because no better tobacco leaf grows, and no process of treating tobacco leaf equals the original "Tuxedo Process."

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

We know that Tuxedo is made of the BEST tobacco—rich, mellow, perfectly aged Kentucky Burley. None better can be bought, because none better is grown.

It is treated by the famous original "Tuxedo Process" for removing the sting and bite of the natural vegetable oils.

Tuxedo was born in 1904. Its first imitator appeared two years later. Since then a host of imitations have sprung up.

No other tobacco can give the unique pleasure of Tuxedo because no other maker has yet been able to equal the Tuxedo quality.

Wisdom from Washington

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 20.—[Special.]—It has almost become an old story, this writing about the "power of the president." But it comes up so often and is proved so frequently that one cannot help but mention it.

Now, there was the feeling in the house of representatives as to what should be the legislative program. Four-fifths of the Democrats wanted to pass the appropriation bills and go home, and there were a majority of the Democrats who wanted to pass the rural credits bill.

And yet the president outlined a program providing that the trust bills should be passed before any further action was taken, and the Democratic caucus was unable to get a record vote on any amendment to the president's program. It could not even muster enough men to oppose him to call the roll. There never has been any other president that had quite as much power over congress as Woodrow Wilson.

Senate May Not Agree.

The members of the house are hoping that the senate will not agree with the president's program and will put the trust legislation over until the short session. Nobody can say just what the president will do if this comes up to him, but we all know that he held congress in session all last summer to pass the currency bill, and there was no adjournment. That he may do the same in regard to trust legislation is possible unless an agreement is reached to vote on the trust bill early in the short session.

The members of the house are banking on the idea that thirty-two senators must go before the people next fall for their re-election, and on that account they will do almost anything to secure an adjournment.

Uncle Walt

May.

This blooming month deserves all praise, and should inspire some poet's song; it ought to have two hundred days, and each day just a fortnight long. In May the winter chill is gone, and there's not heat enough to hurt, and we can play upon the lawn, or manufacture pies of dirt. The garden sows we love it cheap, and we may have a full repeat; the nights are cool, and we can sleep as slept Old Masters in the past. In May the flies are far between, and one can slumber in his bed, on Sunday morn, without a screen in which to hide his weary head. The chiggers and the bugs and bees are not yet organized for strife, and one may sit beneath the trees, and there enjoy a peaceful life. May is the resting place betwixt the winter stress and summer strain; it keeps the two from getting mixed, and shields us from all kinds of pain. And now the girls are bending o'er their needles, morning, night and noon, and buying glad rags at the store, which they will wear as brides in June. And every one feels young and gay, existence is a cheerful thing; and he's a dead one who in May declines to smile and dance and sing.

Newark Public Library.

There is no institution in any city, outside of the public schools, whose far-reaching results are more beneficial, and whose influence for good is more lasting than an efficient public library, free for the use of any citizen who desires to avail himself of an opportunity to increase his sphere of usefulness by extending the scope of his information.

This intent and purpose is that of those who have made the Newark public library what it is today, but it is feared that the proper knowledge of the handicap under which this agency has existed, and at present succeeds in ministering to a vital need, is not generally understood. It is probable that an entirely erroneous impression is extant as to the library's resources, the means at hand and the methods employed to keep up even the present standard of excellence without regard to the necessity of expansion and better equipment.

The institution is not self-sustaining nor is it ever expected to be. The people of Newark must manifest a desire to extend, a helping hand for its maintenance, to a degree in some measure proportionate to the good to be accomplished, which is not calculable in any term of materiality.

The Newark library is a dependent institution and has only one fixed source of revenue, which is from the city and the past year amounted to $1,400. This money is insufficient to do any extension work whatever in the way of purchasing new books, and is barely enough to pay the actual current expenses, including rent, salaries and other incidentals. Upon the generosity of the people the success of this enterprise depends, and especially active and efficient have been the club women of Newark, who from time to time have given entertainments for the purpose of raising funds to be used for better equipment in the matter of new books. On Friday night the Monday Talks will present "The Rivals" at the High school auditorium and it should be liberally patronized.

There are 9000 volumes at present on the shelves, and these have been donated or purchased with funds given by individuals or coming from such sources as before mentioned. There is a little revolving case containing a very small proportion of the fiction volumes which are known as "pay fiction." That is, an infinitesimal rental is charged of five cents per week, and a fine of two cents a day for keeping a book beyond the week period. Now none of this money is used to buy new books, but for buying pocket cards for books, repairs and other small incidentals. Just as soon as a book pays for itself it is put upon the free shelves.

The library needs your support. For you and your children it is a mine of invaluable information about every line of human thought and endeavor, whose stores may be delved into by all without cost, for mental enrichment or pleasure.

To Mrs. Eliza Rankin, the librarian, is due in full measure the very existence of Newark's public library. Since its beginning, her enthusiasm, persistence and intelligent management have furnished the vivifying current that has given it life and growth.

To her unselfish interest in providing the city with such an institution, she has made great personal sacrifices. Her salary is such that it is no inducement whatever for her to remain in Newark. Other cities would be glad to have her in charge of their work, and offers have been made her with a salary offer that would really mean a great deal to a woman differently situated, with ideals less self-centered. Her private means enable her to be independent, and she has consistently refused to accept compensation in any way commensurate with her work, that would cripple the efficiency of the institution upon which her heart and mind are set.

A visit to the library will convince any one that it is a great work, barely started in view of what this city should accomplish. It is needless to say that every volume in the rooms is the best to be had dealing with the subject of which it professes to be an exposition. A children's room is a feature, and here the younger mind can be trained for right thinking and the desire for mental expansion in the proper channels. From this, the range of subjects, extends to the most profound discussions of subjects of the highest intellectual development.

Finally it is urged upon the citizens of Newark to lend their efforts toward the expansion of Newark's library, and give their support and patronage to any activity that has this for its ultimate object.

The Rise and Decline of Trade.

Gibbon wrote a famous history on the "Decline and fall of the Roman Empire." In the power and pride of Rome on the ascending scale, few would have thought ruin was possible. Similarly in many well established business houses there are the seeds of decay.

The merchants of any community range themselves into two classes. There are those who have an established trade, great or small. Some of them think they can now live on the fruits of their past efforts. All they have to do is to sit still and their regular customers will come around and buy their goods.

But population changes more rapidly than it used to. Few people send out roots deep into any soil. Death claims its share. Any given body of people, accustomed to buying goods in some one place, will be cut in two by death and removal in five years.

The older people who bought goods regularly at one store, were almost ashamed to be seen going into another place. They felt as if it were almost an act of disloyalty. Nowadays no one is tied up anywhere. All go where the best bargains are offered. Few places have any regularly established trade that can be counted on without persistent solicitation. New customers must constantly be sought to take the place of those that drop out.

The other class of merchants are those that are coming. In a year, by persistent efforts to tell the public what they are doing, they build up their own constituency. It is made up not merely of the drifters and floaters, but from wide awake people who are drawn from less aggressive and enterprising stores.

The business that does not advertise is usually the business that is going down. The business that advertises is the business that is coming up.

Don't Like Their Methods.

Vic Murdock, the Progressive leader, amused the house the other day by flaying the Democrats on account of their methods. The Democrats brought in a rule providing for consideration of the bill for election of senators. Nearly everybody was in favor of it, including Murdock. He wanted the bill, but did not like the methods they were using. A majority of the men whom Murdock was criticizing were those who criticized the Cannon rules and other gag measures, but found when they became the majority and responsible for legislation that they had to use just such methods in order to get their bills through the house.

Payne Was Fixed.

There was some discussion going on in the house over a bill, and Seno Payne of New York objected because it was a waste of time. "It will be impossible to finish this bill by half past 3 o'clock," remarked Jim Mann.

"I have a number of offers to pair with me if I want to go to the hall game, if that is what the gentleman is getting at," said Payne, and that is just what Mann meant, for the only time that Payne ever missed a hall game was when he was chairman of the ways and means committee and had charge of a tariff bill.

Humphrey a Partisan.

Almost any time there is a bitter partisan debate in the house of representatives we may be sure that Congressman Humphrey of Washington is in it. There is no more intense Republican than Humphrey of Washington. He is almost in a class with Fordney of Michigan as a high protectionist; but, more than that, he likes a scrap for the sake of it, and he loses no opportunity to inject party politics in any debate that may be going on.

Contesting For the Roosevelt Prize.

I suppose there is a Roosevelt prize for larger families or else two such distinguished congressmen as Fitzgerald of New York and Moore of Pennsylvania would not be entering into a contest about it. An unimportant matter was under discussion in the house, and Moore alluded to the number of children he had. Fitzgerald broke in with the statement that he had more children than Moore and Barnhart of Indiana, who was in the debate, put together.

"I am not a boastful man," remarked Barnhart.

Marshall's Guess.

Senator Thompson of Kansas was trying hard to have telegrams regarding the migratory bird law read in the senate, and Senator Reed of Missouri isn't it strange that those Missouri men always clash with a Kansas man?—was having a discussion over the subject when Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania inquired, "What is the order before the senate?"

"The order seems to be a discussion of the migratory bird law, which is not in order," remarked the vice president, which was his best guess as to the way the senate was proceeding.

On Second Thought

Eph Wiley says he has noticed that most of the "woman financiers" inherited their money from husbands who worked themselves to death accumulating it.

A woman can pick up a hotter plate than a man, but man is her equal in nearly every other respect.

Wages are so good in this country that a man who doesn't like it easily can save enough money to get out of it.

In the larger sense every man writes his own epitaph.

A clear conscience needs no filter.

The fellow who hasn't been in bed all night naturally lacks repose.

Any fisherman will tell you it's the early worm that gets the hook.

The chief annoyance of business is that of transacting it with a man you have to watch.

The trouble with the cheerful giver is that, as a rule, he has nothing to give.

DANDRUFFY HEADS BECOME HAIRLESS

Scalp Dries—Chokes out the Hair And Prevents Its Growth.

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will be silky, fluffy, lustrous, soft and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

E. R. McFarland Sends Album With Alaskan Pictures

Ed. R. McFarland, who was formerly a resident of Black Hand, and a telegraph operator in this section, has sent a most interesting album to his daughter who is now living at Toboso, which gives a graphic photographic history of his life in Alaska, where he has been doing signal corps work for several years.

Mr. McFarland's interesting letter will be remembered as published in the Advocate January 20, 1914. The album was bound in leather, the title and designs burned in the covers by William E. Voigt, Tonana, Alaska.

It contains photographs of signal corps, telegraph and construction work on the second section, Washington-Alaska Military Cable and Telegraph system, and a few added miscellaneous prints. The work shown was done under the direction of Lieutenants Singleton, Harris and Eastman of the Signal Corps, U. S. army; Corporal Edward R. McFarland, Signal Corps, N. C. O. in charge; Corporal Charles Cavanaugh, Signal Corps, and George Woods, civilian lineman and photographer.

Hanley Reported Slightly Improved

(Associated Press Telegram)
Cincinnati, May 20.—E. W. Hanley, former chairman of the Democratic state central committee and wealthy business man of Dayton, Ohio, who was seized with an acute attack of indigestion in Cincinnati yesterday, was reported to be slightly improved today. Dr. S. J. D. Meade, who is attending Mr. Hanley, said he thought his patient could be removed to his home in Dayton after a day or two of rest.

Quimet Eliminated From Championship

(Associated Press Telegram)
Sandwich, England, May 20.—Francis Quimet, open golf champion of the United States, was eliminated as a contender for the British amateur championship today. He was defeated with apparent ease by "Young" Tubbs, a boy player from a nearby course at Littlestone-on-Sea. There was a great crowd of spectators on hand for the game.

Horace Clark.....Carlyle Blackwell	Tim Downes.....R. C. Badley
Mary Downes.....Adelaide Wise	Arthur Clark.....Howard Gay
"The Rat".....Charles Wallace	Hale.....Chamne Ward
Hester Hale.....Louise Giam

HORACE CLARK, a young evangelist in a wild western town, is well liked for his pleasant manner and splendid physical prowess by the majority of the inhabitants. His life is interesting and happy until he happens to reform Tim Downes, leader of the worst element of gangsters. Tim and his wife, Mary, are most grateful to the young "sky pilot," but the gang is out to the quick and decides on vengeance.

One night Horace is waylaid by a villainous assault and in the grimmest one of the gang is killed. Horace is arrested. His lawyer brother, Arthur, defends him, but he is convicted on the perjured testimony of "Rat," one of the gangsters, and sent to prison.

The Downes help him escape and he goes away into the mountains. Here he almost starves until he is rescued by Hale, a mountaineer, who takes him to his cabin, where he is fed and tenderly cared for. Hale's daughter, Hester, is very kind to him and the two young people become great friends. Horace discovers that Hale is a moonshiner and pleads with him to give up the illicit business. So effect are his appeals that at last the old man consents, but in destroying the liquor on hand he accidentally sets fire to it and meets a sudden and tragic death.

This precipitates the romance and Horace and Hester are soon married and living happily tucked away in their snug mountain home.

One day, years after, the "Rat," who has become a prominent politician by now, is hunting in the mountains and finds Horace, whom he recognizes immediately as the escaped prisoner, and determines to send him back to jail. Horace is conscious of the recognition and he and his wife are distracted by fear.

The "Rat" has sought out the local justice of the peace, none other than Horace's brother, Arthur, to whom he tells his tale. Arthur says he knows the man—though not explaining the relationship between them—and denies that he is the person whom the "Rat" thinks he is.

"Whiffles and the Diamond Pin."

Whiffles, an impecunious artist, has two notes on one memorandum sheet, the first the information that he is out of town for all week, to be given to the loan shark when he calls, and the second an engagement to meet a girl at the rustic bridge in the park at 2:30. The loan shark arrives betimes, and Whiffles hides himself in a box couch, so he is not aware that the memorandum sheet was left on the table and that it fell under the eagle eye of his caller, a gentleman possessed of a diabolical sense of humor. After his departure Whiffles crept out and made ready for his rendezvous. A friend, richly bedecked in diamonds, who called in just then, generously loaned him a spectacular headlight affair to wear in his scarf, and Whiffles stepped jauntily forth.

The loan shark had put his machinations into motion when Whiffles was adorning himself in glory. A message dispatched to the young woman announced that Whiffles could not keep his engagement, so she went away. But the stenographer, a pretty girl, nicely gowned, and flirtatiously expert, remained on the bench, and when Whiffles arrived soon had him overwhelmed with her charms. Not a word would she say, however, and when she departed the languishing Whiffles followed persistently along and was led straight into the loan shark's office. He hadn't a cent with which to settle, but the loan shark had his eye on the glowing diamond and allowed that that would close the account, insisted on it in fact, to such an extent that to leave it behind was the only way for Whiffles to escape.

Whiffles, fairly swamped in chagrin, approached his friend of the diamonds and related the pathetic tale.

"O, zat is ze nothing," the man replied with an airy flourish. "See, it is still ze—what you call it?—Joke on ze loan shark," and he displayed a bill from a store with the notation, "One diamond pin, $10."

"The Cop on the Beat."

In this film a brave and wide awake policeman is rewarded for his virtues. First he answers a small boy's summons to come quickly to help his mother, who is very sick. Officer Casey calls a doctor immediately, and when Mrs. Gale is ordered to the hospital, offers to keep an eye on the children, the eldest of whom is Nellie, a very charming girl.

The father of the Gale children is away in the west, and the mother's collapse was caused by his last letter, in which he spoke of his probably fatal illness, but told them he had struck a mine that paid and that his partner would bring them their share of the money. His partner played the villain after this was written, left him alone in the cabin to die, and went away, selling the mine to a man named Brown. When Brown visited his new possession he found Gale still alive, learned the story, nursed him back to health and gave him his rightful share of the mine, sending some of the money in advance to Mrs. Gale.

One night the policeman dreamed of a burglary in the Gale home and restlessly went out to walk past the house, just in time to catch Hawkins, Gale's former partner, who had spent his money and gone in for house-breaking that evening selecting the Gales' house as his point of attack. The next day Gale returned and there was a happy reunion, at which the policeman was the guest of honor.

"The Weaker Brother."

This film of the civil war involves so much disguising, spying, and traitor turning that it is a bit difficult to be sure just which side is which and who is on it. It is localized in the south and the union and confederate armies are so close together that it appears very easy to slip from one side to the other. There is a villain or two, a number of soldiers, the inevitable "papers" and a very pretty girl. The pretty girl seems to have a southern brother with a penchant for spying and she acquires a northern sweetheart similarly characterized.

When he is caught as a spy and brought to his home for punishment the action crystallizes into more definiteness, for Dave determines to save him from his court martial death sentence.

More people drink this coffee than all other packaged coffees combined

For many years, Arbuckles' Coffee has been used in more American homes than all other packaged coffees combined, and its sale is increasing.

Just imagine the thousands upon thousands of kitchens that are filled with its appetizing fragrance every morning!

There must be something better about Arbuckles' Coffee, or it wouldn't be preferred by more than half of all the users of packaged coffees. Of course, people have tried other coffees. But they come back to Arbuckles' because they find that nothing else compares with it in value. It gives more quality and more satisfaction for the money. Have you had a cup of Arbuckles' recently? If not, get a package at your grocer's today.

WALMSLEY-HENDERSON.

On Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Anna E. Henderson in Kibler avenue was solemnized the marriage of Miss Josephine Henderson to Mr. Harold M. Walmsley.

The Henderson home was prettily arranged for the ceremony which was read by Rev. Don Tullis of the Second Presbyterian church. The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, while the matron of honor, Mrs. J. L. McCracken of Cameron, W. Va., wore a gown of black and white lace. The groom's best man was Mr. Edward Henson of Philadelphia. Following the wedding service a dinner was served to about 40 guests.

The bride has been stenographer at the Ohio Light and Power company, while Mr. Walmsley, whose home is in Chicago, has been located in Newark in the capacity of construction engineer on the new plant of the Ohio Light & Power company.

Miss Willoughby of Cincinnati was the honor guest at a tango party given at the home of Miss Mary Sherwood Wright on Monday evening in Granville street. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Webb and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb, and the dancers were: Misses Willoughby, Grace Fulton, Helen Beard, Marion Weant, Marjory Lawhead, Annette Besden, Hazel Alshook, Frances Collins, Bertha Latimer, Anne Sprague, Messrs. Bainbridge, Leon Shinn, Frederick Wright, Arthur Schauweker, David Manning, Ewing Webb, Tom Collins, George Upson and Howard Upson.

Miss Muriel McMahon delightfully entertained the members of the Kensington club on Tuesday evening at her home in Bowers avenue. The hours were devoted to needlework and a dainty luncheon was served the members and following guests: Mrs. Harry Bourner, Misses Christine Young and Irene McMahon.

The girls of the Altar Guild of the Trinity Episcopal church gave a delightful playlet, "The Packing of the Home Missionary Barrel" at the parish house on Tuesday evening. The play was given under the direction of Mrs. U. O. Stevens, and the various members of the caste interpreted the roles in a clever way and much originality was shown. The caste was: Mrs. Brown, hostess—Mrs. Homer Jones.

Mrs. Dimp—Thora McDonagh.
Miss Flinn—Mary Morath.
Mrs. Green—Lula Starr.
Mrs. Jones, a confirmed invalid—Miss Abbie Metz.

Mrs. Lamb, a widow—Mrs. Virginia Allen.

Mrs. Marks—Inez Smith.
Mrs. White—Miss Nellie Fleming.
Mrs. Hicks, a strong minded woman—Marjory Lawhead.

Sophia, a Polish girl—Miss Ross.
A large audience assembled and a substantial sum was cleared by the benefit.

THEN

The first woman to become a regularly ordained minister was born 89 years ago today. She was Antoinette Louise Brown, later Mrs. Samuel C. Blackwell, the daughter of a farmer of Henrietta, N. Y. When she came to consider a college education in 1843 the College Institute, now Oberlin College, was the only institution of its kind in America where women could pursue a collegiate education. She was graduated in the literary course and although she established later a reputation as a brilliant speaker, she was refused a license, as a preacher. She turned to lecturing upon women's rights, and was a leading member of the first woman's Rights Convention that met in Worcester, Mass., in 1850. Three years later the bar against her entry to the ministry was lowered and she was ordained as pastor of the Congregational Church at South Butler, N. Y. Later she joined the Unitarian ministry, always continuing her agitation for woman suffrage.

NOW

Today more than 2,500 women are preaching as regularly ordained ministers in the United States. More than 7,000 others are regularly certified physicians and surgeons. Probably 2,000 more are registered as members of the legal profession, and thousands are scattered among various professions and industries which half a century ago were considered solely fields for masculine endeavor. Many cities today have women as mayors and heads of civic departments. State and city school boards are headed by women. There are scores of women who have the right to practice law before the United States Supreme Court. Many colleges have adopted co-education, while there are more than thirty colleges devoted exclusively to the feminine sex. In the universities, colleges and technical schools in the United States during the last year there were over 5,000 women professors and instructors and more than 100,000 women students.

FIVE MEET DEATH NEAR ASHEVILLE, O. IN A COLLISION

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, May 20.—Five persons were killed near Asheville, twenty-five miles south of Columbus at 8:30 o'clock today when a Scioto Valley traction company car struck an automobile at a crossing. The dead are: William M. Miller, president and cashier of the Citizens bank at Asheville; Mrs. Aggie Miller, wife of William M. Miller; Mrs. Alice Staiger, sister of Mr. Miller, Vida Bond, 6-year-old daughter of H. J. Bond, and Mrs. C. E. Hills, wife of Rev. C. E. Hills. Her 6-year-old daughter was rescued from under the burning automobile.

The automobile and the electric car were both burned, through a short circuit of the third rail. It is thought the parties in the automobile were electrocuted, as the machine was not smashed by the force of the collision.

The crew of the electric car succeeded in getting the bodies from the automobile before they were burned.

The coroner and physicians from Asheville hurried to the scene, but were unable to render any assistance.

Traffic on the Scioto Valley at Asheville has been tied up since the accident.

Physicians in attendance upon Mary Bell Hill said this afternoon that her injuries consisted of terrible burns about the head and body. Her recovery was regarded as entirely improbable. The thriving little village of Asheville is in deep gloom over the tragedy. An Asheville high school banquet and all commencement exercises scheduled for the week of June 4 have been canceled as a mark of respect to those killed and injured today.

Passengers and crew of the traction car performed deeds of heroism in trying to rescue the automobile party from the burning wreckage. Many of them sustained bad burns as they made their way to the car. The millers were Asheville's wealthiest citizen.

The millers leave two children, Grace, 17, a freshman at Ohio State University and Harry, 16, a student at the Asheville high school.

The traction car was inbound, due in Columbus at 8:30 and was in charge of Conductor Langdon and Motorman Bivens.

STATISTICS GIVEN ON FOREIGN TRADE.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, May 20.—Armed with tables of figures, Senator Smoot of Utah today told the Senate that the total loss to the commerce of the country in the month of April as a result of the passage of the Underwood tariff law had been $63,000,000. He based this, he said, on reports as to increased importation and increased exportation. He said this was at the rate of $766,000,000 loss a year.

Madame Is'bell Gives Reducing Diet That Will Not Harm Health or Beauty

LESSON XII—PART V. Obesity (Continued).

The diet that goes under the name of "Banting" which I gave in last article will reduce the most stubborn cases of obesity three to five pounds a week, whether physical exercises are included in the regime or not. But there are certain disadvantages in adopting so rigorous a diet.

Disadvantages of Banting.
For perfect health a more varied diet is necessary: the system needs some starch and sugar and a considerable amount of fat. Women who undergo the banting system are apt to emerge with yellow, dry, wrinkled skin. They look as they are, undernourished. The diet is strenuous and it is not good effects should be accompanied by at least one-half hour's daily work at specific exercises that I shall give you later and a certain amount of walking or vigorous outdoor work.

Madame Is'bell's Reducing Diet.
Breakfast—One egg, cooked in any fashion except fried; two thin slices of bacon; toast cut of wheat, with milk if desired, but no sugar; orange, grapefruit or apple sauce made without sugar.
Lunch—Chopped chicken, French dressing, cold meat with green salad, Ray oysters with a few buttered crackers. Dry toast with baked apple, apple sauce or any starchy fruit cooked without little sugar. Any soup made without cream eaten with toast or crackers. An occasional glass of burdock may be drunk.
Dinner—Grilled chop or steak, underdone roast beef and lamb, chicken, boiled or grilled fish (excepting salmon and sardines), green salad with French dressing, any vegetable that grows above ground, with butter omitted from seasoning, and cheese or fruit for dessert. Cup of black coffee may be drunk after dinner.
This diet includes a small amount of fat and sugar and enough liquid to aid digestion. In addition, drink a glass of cup of hot water with juice of one lemon in it and partake freely of pure cold water between meals. If the dinner hour is late, a cup of weak tea, but no food, may be taken at five o'clock. Food between meals should be continued.

FIND VAGRANT'S POCKETS BULGING WITH BANKNOTES

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, May 20.—Surgeons at Bellevue hospital, while examining Carl Schmidt, who was brought there from a Bowery lodging house yesterday, discovered several pocket-ages in his tattered clothes, containing $3,880 and several banknotes, showing that he had $5,000 more on deposit. Schmidt, who is 78 years old, had occupied a 15-cent-a-day room in the lodging house for the past fourteen years and was supposed by his fellow lodgers to be hard pressed to pay even that small sum for a place to sleep.

To the surgeons Schmidt said he came to this country 50 years ago from Germany and that his people are of the best in that country. As if to explain his physical breakdown he said:

"I have worked too hard."

NO ARGUMENTS WILL BE HEARD DURING HOT WEATHER.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, May 20.—An official announcement made by Chief Justice Hugh L. Nichols today says the supreme court will not hear oral arguments during July and August but will remain in session long enough to dispose of all cases in which oral argument may be hereafter waived.
The Supreme court substantially cleared its docket of all cases submitted on brief only, says the statement. Counsel having cases on which oral argument has been demanded may facilitate a disposition of the same by an immediate waiving oral argument. Of course this waiver must be concurred in by each and every counsel of record in the case. If waiver to this effect is forwarded to either the chief justice or clerk of the supreme court, such cases will be taken up out of their order and immediately disposed of.

LITTLE DISCUSSIONS OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE

BY BARBARA BOYD

Leaping Into Matrimony.

"Isn't it strange how some people seem to leap into matrimony without appearing to realize in any way what a serious plunge they are making?" remarked the New Bride.

"I think the majority of sensible people go, at it rather carefully," objected the New Bridegroom.

"I am not so sure of that. Many just seem to get infatuated with a person and determine to have that one person regardless of consequences. Their main thought seems to be concentrated upon how to get this life partner, not whether he or she, looking at the matter sensibly and practically, is the right one to have. But I wasn't thinking of those who give the matter even this much thought, but of four cases I heard of today where seemingly the plunge was made without thought of any kind whatever."

"One was a man nearly forty, a practical business man of wide experience. His work has taken him all over the world. He married his wife upon three weeks' acquaintance and he fell in love with her voice. He heard her talking in the dark. He didn't know who she was nor what she was like. But he decided then and there she was the only woman in the world for him. He secured an introduction, met her three times and in less than a month they were married. And they are just as nice sensible people as you would want to meet anywhere."

"It was very romantic," mused the New Bridegroom. "And perhaps the romance of it helped the thing along. But they both took awful risks."

"They certainly did," agreed the New Bride. "Even if they had no big faults, they might have little irritating habits, impossible to discover in three meetings, which would spoil all the happiness of living together."

"Both of them must have been very adaptable and they must have had a great admiration for each other," reflected the New Bridegroom. "I would hardly call it love yet."

"That's just the point," agreed the New Bride. "I don't see how they could have come to love each other in that brief time. And if she had had even little habits that annoyed and irritated him, and he had had the same effect on her, it wouldn't have taken them many weeks to have been tugging wildly at their bonds. It is a matter of amazement to me that they are as happy as they are. It seems to upset all one's carefully worked out theories about those things."

"How did the other cases work out?"

"The same way. One is a clever and successful business woman I know. She met a man on an ocean liner. In six weeks they were married and she has gone to live with him on an island in the Indian Ocean. He is a military officer of some kind. And she is idyllically happy. And the other two are of the same sort, how now do you explain it?"

"I suppose," mused the New Bridegroom, "their courtship days came after marriage, which might be rather an interesting experiment. Then, too, they are making all the discoveries about each other which usually are made before the knot is tied. The element of chance, too, that is in it, appeals to some natures. But nevertheless, I do not think it is wise."

"I don't either. Marriage has to do with too serious things to take a chance on them. Enough of the unexpected develops anyway without going it blind where you can see."

"I suppose, though, while time endures, when a man sees the woman he wants, he'll take any risk to get her. Had it been a matter of three weeks, dear, even of three days, I wouldn't have let you slip away from me."

Which bit of flattery still more completely upset all the New Bride's carefully worked out theories upon the painstaking way one should choose a life partner.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or Bladder troubles. Your Salts is fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to cleanse and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will set a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready-to-use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Agents Hall's Drug Store.

Silicious—"They are going to be married in May, isn't that unlucky?" Cynicus—"Oh, I don't know. They can always have something to blame it on."

Chicago, May 20.—Unabated reports of damage from Hessian fly continued today to enhance the value of wheat. State officials were advising farmers to plow up fields that had been badly attacked and to plant corn as a substitute crop. The market opened 1-8 to 1c higher, but some reaction followed.

Although corn at the outset showed firmness with wheat, prices later failed to hold up. Prices started unchanged to 1-8 to 1-4c higher, but then receded to slightly below last night's level.

Dry weather and less favorable crop prospects gave strength to oats. Fields in Oklahoma and southern Indiana and Illinois were said to be especially unpromising.

Provisions ruled steady with hogs business, however, lacked volume.

FIGHTING IN THE "HORNETS' NEST"

A Memorial Day Reminiscence by a Congressman.

"MY first baptism of blood was at Fort Donelson, on the Cumberland river near Nashville, Tenn., and a terrible fight it was," said Representative Sanford Kirkpatrick of Iowa, who has seen thirty years of remarkable service in the internal revenue service since the war.

"The weather was bitterly cold for that part of the country, and following as it did the battles at Fort Henry, the wounded of our army suffered terribly. All of our troops were in sore need of tents and even blankets.

"The fort was right on the banks of the Cumberland and consisted of strong outer works, with almost impregnable inner works in the shape of a square. About 4 o'clock of the first day of the fight I was standing near the colonel of our regiment, the Second Iowa Infantry, who was Colonel J. M. Tuttle. General Smith, whom we all knew by sight, came riding up and addressed himself to Colonel Tuttle in the hearing of all the men.

"Do you believe God ever made men brave enough to take the fort on ronder hill?" asked General Smith, pointing to the grim fort on the river bank. "Yes," replied Colonel Tuttle laconically, and he promptly ordered the 'charge'.

"There was a heavy abatis of felled trees between our position and the fort, which lay in such position that when we charged the Confederates could not reach us until we were within about a thousand yards of them. There were 576 men in our regiment when they moved forward, and at the first volley, after we got within the fatal thousand yard limit, nearly half of the men fell killed or wounded. There were exactly 296 of our regiment killed or wounded within three minutes after the action began.

"Those of us left rushed up, and so fierce was the onslaught that that part of the field was dubbed by the Confederates the 'Hornets' Nest' and our brigade was nicknamed the 'Hornets' Nest' brigade, which appellation is still carried by the survivors and always alluded to at Memorial day exercises in Iowa."

The Old Regiment.
Long ago on a summer day Over the hills they marched away—Kinfolk, friends and the boys we knew In childhood's blossoms and fields of dew. Changed in that hour to full grown men, When the song of the bugle rang down the glen.

With its wild appeal and its throbbing trail, And they answered "Yea" to their country's call.

Then in the furrow the plowshare slept, O'er wheel and anvil a silence crept, All night long through the village street Thundered the rhythm of marching feet. With clash of steel and the sabers' clang And the gray commander's stern ha- rangue, Till morning broke, and they marched away.

Long ago on a summer's day, We watched them go, with their guns agleam, Down past the mill and the winding stream, Across the meadows with clover deep, By the old stone wall where the roses creep.

We watched them go till they climbed the hill, And then, faced about as the drums grew still, And they waved their caps to the vale below With its breaking hearts that loved them so.

Save for the maimed and the shattered few They come no more to the vale they knew In the old dear days of their childhood's dreams, But far away, by the alien streams, On the scenes of their struggles their still hearts sleep.

Lying unnamed in the trenches deep, Where the foe at Antietam stormed the lines And the blood stained bayonets at Seven Pines.

They wake no more to the battle's noise—Kinfolk, friends and the neighbors' boys, But oft when the starlight glows the glen In phantom marches they come again, And over the walls where the roses creep And the dew kissed meadows with clover deep I see them still as they marched away Long ago on a summer's day.—John S. McGroarty in West Coast Magazine.

The Secret of Youth.
Youth is what we all love to have and to hold, and since Ponce de Leon's time many a way of conserving it has been prescribed—dosage, drinking, sour milk, systems of exercise, bathing, rubbing. Any one of these things may help the individual, but not every individual. And let us not forget that youth is in great measure a gift of the spirit. Children are young because for them life abounds. They find springs of energy within and stores of refreshment without. Wonder, curiosity, the enjoyment of 10,000 trifles, a short memory for punishment and pain—all these things make for youth. Quarrels, resentfulness, suspicion, worry, grouches—these bring harder lines around the mouth, hardened arteries, old age. Nothing is too small to delight a child, given the right conditions; nothing too big to darken, for very long, the spangled sky. That is the secret of youth. Draw the curtain, Master Manager! On with the human comedy!—Collier's.

Curiously Absentminded.
Henri Poincare, the famous French physicist and mathematician, was remarkably absentminded. One evening he was looking in a closed bookcase for a manuscript. During the search he set the lamp on a shelf in the case and in a moment of abstraction closed the door of the cabinet and sat down in darkness. After he had pondered for a time on the disappearance of the light he came to the conclusion that he had suddenly become blind. That seemed to him quite possible since his eyes were weak anyway, and he groaned at the thought of his deplorable condition. Suddenly to his surprise a stream of light appeared, coming from the adjoining room, and he remarked, with much satisfaction, "My sight seems to have come back again." Not even then did he think of the lamp in the bookcase!

Made the Match.
During his first stay in Washington as Chinese minister, Wu Ting Fang attended the wedding of the daughter of the chief justice of the supreme court and said to one of the bridesmaids:

"When will it be your turn to become a bride?" "I do not know," she answered. "I have not yet been asked."

So the amiable Chinese minister said to one of a group of young men standing near by: "This is a beautiful lady. Would you not like to marry her?" He replied, "I shall be most delighted to."

Street Traffic of London.
The control of London traffic by the police has been a matter of slow evolution. A century ago, when George IV, dined with the lord mayor soon after his succession, it took his escort five hours to force a way through the crowd which filled the streets from his palace to the Guildhall. And it was not until about thirty years ago that the existing system of regulating traffic at crossings was instituted. At the beginning it required four policemen at every important junction to do with difficulty what two constables and sometimes one now effect by a motion of the hand. But the men in blue stuck to their task and bung on to horses' heads and summoned rebellious drivers till the reign of law and order was established.

Argentina Humior.
On the prairies of Argentina, where the chief mode of travel is by horseback, the ranchers often make use of the Spanish expression, "compar tier-ra." The literal translation of that phrase is "to buy ground." The South American rough riders think that when you fall off your horse you occupy the ground where you land almost as if you owned it, and if you make much of a hole in the earth where you strike, as you are very likely to do when you are riding a very Argentine mount, they say that you have bought the ground and begin to dig the cellar for a house.—Youth's Companion.

Dancing at Berlin's Zoo.
What would one of the largest of the cities of the United States think of going out to the zoo and dancing there until 3 o'clock in the morning? Yet this is nothing unusual in Berlin. There one goes to the zoo to see the animals if one chooses, but also to dine and to dance. The zoo is really a very delightful rendezvous for dining, especially in summer; the music there is notably good.—Spur.

A Chicken Hawk in Flight.
Saw chicken hawk in flight, which suggests the motion of a motorcar. No flapping, no soaring, but a series of quick, explosive beats of the wings, each sending the bird forward in a leap of several yards. The flicker gives five strokes, then a jump.—From "A Farmer's Notebook."

Modest.
"Now, Willie," said the visitor to a little fellow who had been in school only two weeks, "who is the smartest boy in your class?" "I'd like to tell you," he replied, "but papa says that I mustn't boast."—Chicago News.

The Sixth One.
"Smythe & Co. are going to erect a five story building." "Will it pay?" "That's another story."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Columbus, May 20.—Ohio's new school program became a reality today when the 90-day referendum petitions were filed on them. Most of the laws became effective today. Unconfirmed rumors of circulation of referendum petitions had reached the office of the state school commissioner from counties where hostility was shown the laws.

LICKING BOYS ENTER FOR THE TRIP CONTEST

Secretary W. C. Metz of the Licking County Crop Improvement society reported Tuesday that excellent progress is being made in organizing for this year's free trip to New York and Washington for boys who prove to be successful corn growers. New entries in the contest are being forwarded to the state agricultural commission and Licking county farmers are responding fairly well to the call of the society.

This year the farmers themselves, as those directly benefited by this movement for better crops, are being asked to contribute amounts from $1 toward creating the fund to cover the expenses of Licking county trip winners. It is said the complete list of entries will be announced before long.

Asa M. Young, Granville, R. D. 3, McKean township, and George O. Wilson, Newark, R. D. 2, Newton township, have just been announced as new contestants entered in this year's corn-growing contest in Licking county.

Young boys and girls, did you ever dream of taking a great trip?

There are chances to make these dreams come true by winning a free trip to Washington in some of the contests.

Time for entering the corn growing contest is drawing to a close, but there is yet time to enter. Domestic science contest entries close July 1. Write A. P. Sandies, Columbus, for blanks.

BEECH WOODS.

A township Sunday school convention was held at the Zion Reformed church Sunday. Many prominent speakers were present. Music was furnished by the choir and the Dits orchestra. A large crowd was present at both sessions.

Among the business visitors at Lancaster Saturday were Sherman Custard and Marion Foster.

E. A. Drum and wife were visitors in Reading over Sunday.

Clyde Hite has purchased a new buggy.

Roy Snider and wife were visitors at Buckeye Lake Sunday.

J. D. Van Gundy of Lancaster was a business visitor through Oakthorpe Friday.

Dora Foster is making preparations to build a new barn. Mr. Foster had his barn destroyed by lightning about two weeks ago.

A number of farmers through here are having phones installed in their homes.

Lewis Saum was a visitor at Buckeye Lake Monday.

Even the shoemaker may be an aristocrat when he considers himself too good to last.

MANY PEOPLE VISIT SCHOOLS

Patrons' week in the public schools was even more successful this year than last. The following is the report by buildings of the number of visits made last week by interested patrons: High school, 260; Central, 165; Woodside, 164; Hartzler, 107; East Main, 99; Fourth street, 92; Maholm, 85; Mound, 76; Mill street, 74; Conrad, 70; Hudson avenue, 43; Keller, 29; Franklin, 10; Texas, 5; Riverside, 2; total, 1,281.

Last year the number of visits was 1,210. It is hoped to make patrons' week an annual custom in the schools with the purpose to bring schools and parents into closer sympathy. While a special effort is made during this week to get visitors, parents are always most welcome to visit the schools.

P. M. BEGLEN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH WEDNESDAY MORNING

Typhoid fever claimed as its victim Wednesday morning Mr. P. M. Beglen, of the Newark Wall Paper company. Death occurred at the home, 594 Hudson avenue. Mr. Beglen was 29 years of age and had been a resident of Newark for five years, being connected in business with his father-in-law, H. L. Reid.

Mr. Beglen and family, consisting of his wife and two small children, came here from Medford, Mass., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beglen, have residence. He is also survived by three brothers, one of whom is Assistant Superintendent Ralph Beglen of the B. & O. S. W., with headquarters in Cincinnati. The latter arrived here Tuesday on board his private car.

Mr. Beglen became ill with typhoid one week ago last Friday, and when his illness took a critical turn relatives were notified. Most of the members of the family were here at the time of death.

It is expected interment will be made in Newark, although funeral arrangements had not been made late Wednesday.

DISCUSS INCREASE OF THE GAS RATES AT CONVENTION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
St. Louis, May 20—The necessity of increasing the rates for natural gas throughout the United States was discussed at the ninth annual convention of the Natural Gas Association of America, in session here today. The decrease in the supply and the expenses of piping from foreign fields was the argument advanced.

More than six hundred delegates were in attendance. Cincinnati has been chosen for the 1915 convention.

HEADACHE AND DIZZINESS

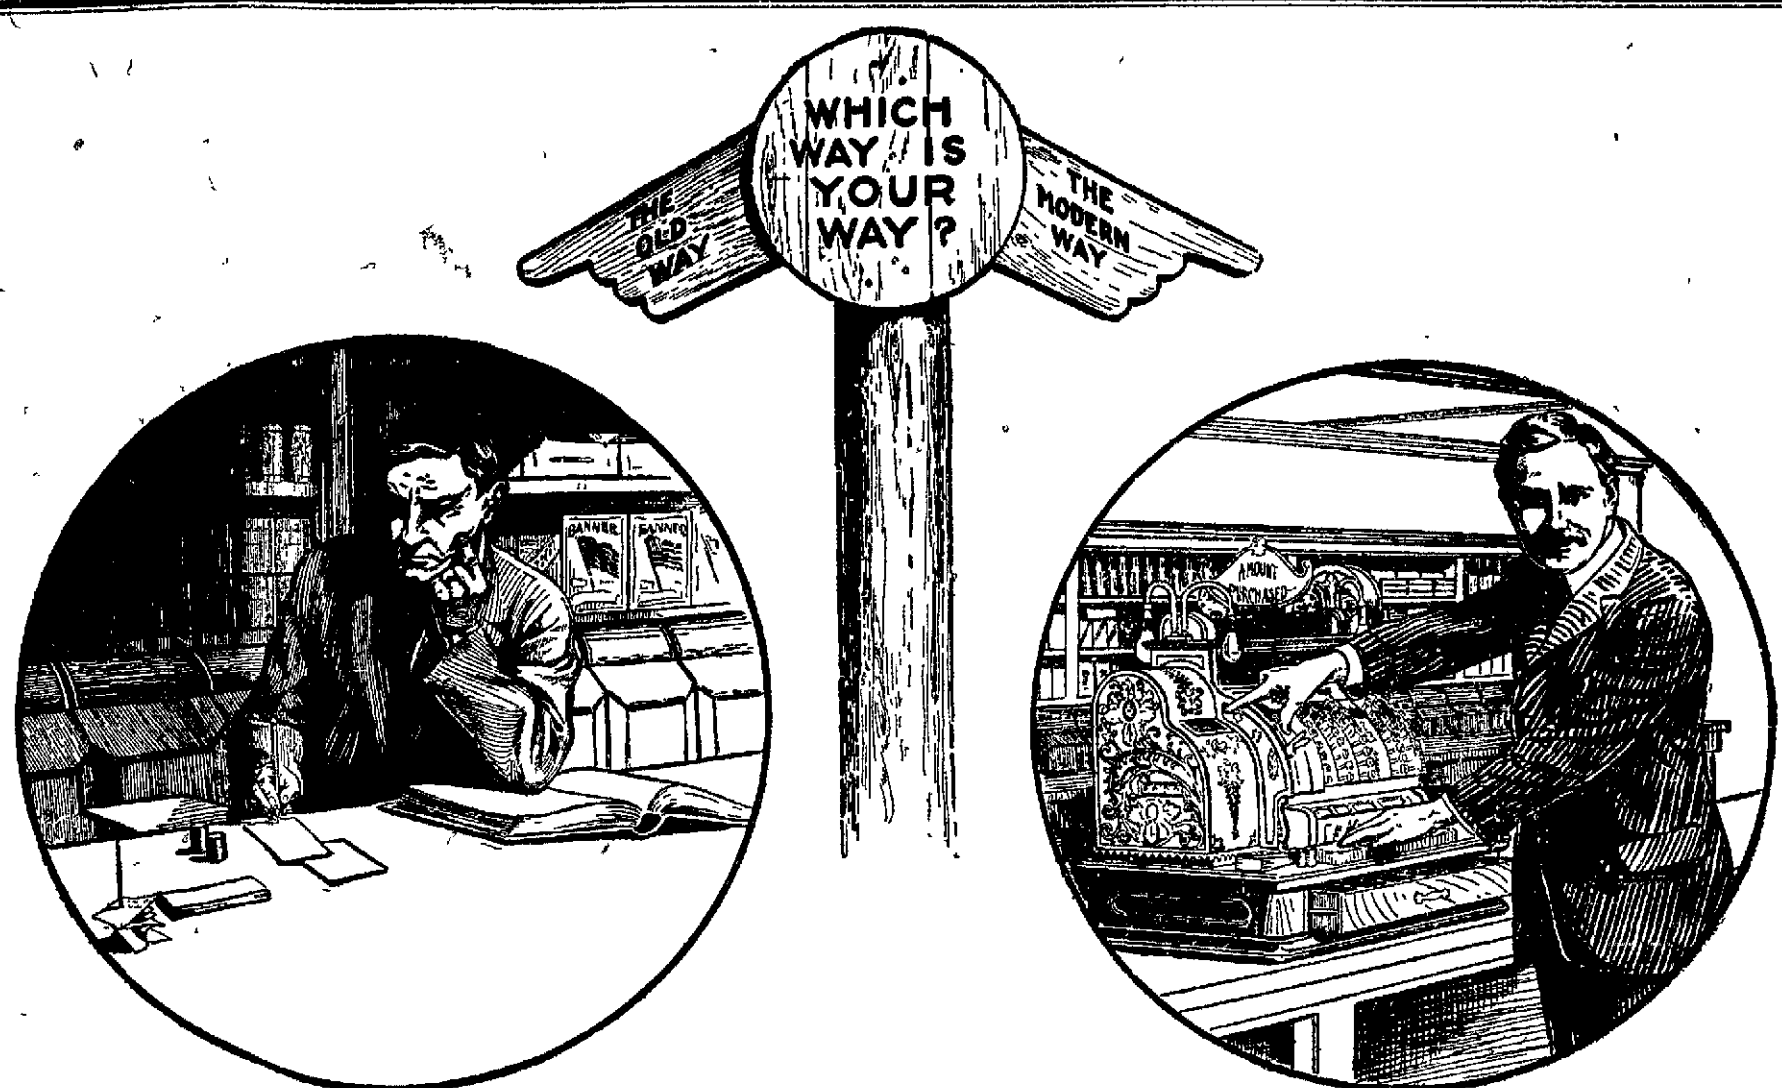

Headache is never a disease. It is always a symptom. Applications, powders and tablets that drug the headache into quietude are treating the symptoms, not the disease, always a useless proceeding and often harmful.

When headache is associated with some dizziness it is usually the result of nervous exhaustion and will continue as long as the person who is overworked allows the debility to continue. It rapidly disappears when rest and the proper tonic is taken.

Nervous exhaustion, the cause of such headaches and dizziness, results from a strain on the nerves with which the rebuilding work of the blood is unable to keep pace. The best tonic for such a condition is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves.

With this treatment, unless the nervous disorder, or whatever has caused the nervous breakdown, is persisted in, the headaches, dizziness, nervousness and irritability that characterize neurasthenia rapidly disappear.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a helpful little book on the home treatment of nervous disorders. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are obtainable at any drug store.

SOUND, REFRESHING SLEEP PRODUCED BY A GUARANTEED VEGETABLE NERVE TONIC

There isn't a helpful druggist on earth that doesn't hate to hand over the counter such dangerous and habit forming drugs as opium, bromides and coal tar products.

And when such well known, reputable pharmacists as T. J. Evans is in a position to recommend an honest, vegetable remedy that has been indorsed by a thousand physicians, every resident of Newark and vicinity who suffers from insomnia, nervousness, brain fog and fidgety restlessness, ought to rejoice and be thankful.

Morse's Glycerole is the name of this vegetable prescription, that is doing so much for nerve-racked humanity, and Mr. Hazen Morse, the expert chemist who scientifically combines the ingredients contained in Morse's Glycerole, is more than entitled to the volume of praise bestowed upon him by physicians and nurses in both America and England.

Morse's Glycerole is not a patent medicine; the exact and complete formula is on every bottle and all sufferers can see for themselves just what they are taking.

Mr. Morse has been compounding Morse's Glycerole for the use of physicians and hospitals for 30 years and its success in all nervous conditions has been so remarkable that T. J. Evans feels justified in offering this purely vegetable preparation to all readers of the Advocate with the distinct understanding that if it does not satisfy any sufferer—money back.

If you want a night of restful sleep, free from annoying dreams, twitches and tossings, get a bottle of Morse's Glycerole today. It will not disappoint you.

Morse's Glycerole is guaranteed by T. J. Evans for nervousness, sleeplessness, brain fog, despondency, result of overwork, hysteria, alcoholism and all nerve ailments. For irritable and teething children there is nothing so safe and sure.

Morse's Glycerole cures by building up; it is a restorer of confidence; it creates muscle, nerve force, energy, vigor and vitality. You can get a bottle for only 50 cents, larger bottles for a dollar.

Other animals can't be harmed by Rat Rid. It's scientifically prepared to be fatal to rats and mice only, and to kill without causing odor.

ITCHING ECZEMA IS DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Use like cold cream to subdue irritation and clear the skin.

Constant or intermittent irritation producing itching and red, angry Eczema patches on the skin is readily relieved with bold-sulphur cream. The moment it is applied the itching stops and the healing begins, says a noted dermatologist.

It effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur cream has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties. It is not only parasiticide but also antipruritic and antiseptic and nothing has ever been found to take its place in overcoming irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance it instantly stops the agonizing itching; subdues the irritation and heals the inflamed raw skin right up and it is often years later before any Eczema eruption again appears.

Those troubled should get from any pharmacist an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and apply it directly upon the affected skin like you would any ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with itching.

NEW BETHEL.

OHIO UNIVERSITY

SUMMER SCHOOL.

The summer session of Ohio University enrolled nearly 1,200 students in 1913. The remarkable growth of this school is simply a part of the equally remarkable growth of the University in all its departments. When President Ellis entered upon his phenomenally successful administration twelve years ago, the outlook was not promising and even the most hopelessly ardent friend of the institution could have had no vision of what the next few years were to bring about. The large, well equipped buildings now in use and in process of erection, the beautifully kept campus, the united and earnest faculty, and the large and earnest student body all united to tell the same story—the story of success achieved in the midst of difficulty by intelligent, persistent, painstaking, and well directed effort on the part of President Ellis and those associated with him in the administration of the affairs of this historic university.

In too many instances, the president of the modern college or university has little or nothing to do with the direction of its affairs, except in the most general way, each member of the faculty being a law unto himself and doing practically as he pleases. Ohio University, under the presidency of Doctor Ellis, furnishes a concrete example of a thoroughly supervised institution of higher education, by a president who is "on the job" all the time and who has thorough knowledge of what is going on.—Ohio Educational Monthly.

GOOD NEWS FOR YOU! PAIN DISAPPEARS

Have You Heard About "The Road to Quick Relief"—Better Get Acquainted With Speedway.

There's more joy for you in one bottle of Speedway than in a whole year of spring days. For Speedway does take the aches and pains away. Speedway is for those tired, stiff joints—for bruises and sprains—for rheumatic limbs that make you wince every time you move.

Limber up with Speedway! Feel frisky and fine by simply applying this magic balm. It feels good when you use it—you feel like a new person afterward.

Putting it on full strength—rubbing gently until the skin glows—is just the thing. For Speedway cannot burn or blister the skin. It's as soothing and pleasant as toilet water. It can't stain the flesh or the daintiest fabric, being a kind and gentle remedy—and just as sure as it is agreeable.

Suppose you go—the first minute you get the chance to your druggist and buy a bottle of Speedway. Better get the large size, and use it faithfully—then you will absolutely receive the results promised or the druggist will return your money.

Speedway was discovered and successfully used for years by a good old Scotch physician. Now it is given to the world—ready to prove your "road to quick relief." Try it now.

REMARKABLE RESULTS FROM NEW REMEDY

Amolox, the new scientific, liquid prescription, will positively cure eczema, acne, pimples and all skin eruptions. It stops all itch and burning instantly. SEC'Y. JOHNSON OF LOCAL Y.M.C.A. SUBMITS REPORT

Secretary Frank L. Johnson in his report of the work of the Newark Y. M. C. A. for the year ending March 31, 1914 gives a general review of the work of the institution which is considered very creditable by the directors to whom it was submitted. The report in detail is quite voluminous, and covers every phase of the work. In part it follows:

"This organization, attempts to develop those who come under its influence in three ways; physically, mentally, and spiritually. For the physical development, it uses the gymnasium, swimming pool, tennis courts, out door camps, hikes, and games; for the mental development, it provides a reading room supplied with up-to-date magazines and daily papers, and provides such classes and teachers as are necessary to meet the demands of those who are in need of special class work. The cultivation of the members along spiritual and moral lines, is done through many personal interviews, special services, and by providing a meeting place where the social life is always kept upon a high spiritual plane.

The work at the building has been increased by adding a floor above and one below the original social floor. This new arrangement has added strength to our work and the daily attendance at the building has increased from $1 in 1908, to 175 in 1913. According to the best figures we can obtain, the membership in this period has not increased, but has remained about the same in numbers, although the receipts for membership in 1908 were $1150.35, and in 1913, $1323.15. The running expenses have not increased beyond that which would naturally be expected. In 1908 the light and heat cost $692.32; in 1913, $475.09. A careful examination of the treasurer's reports for 1908 and 1913, shows that 1913 made a gain of $840.27 over 1908. In the two principal items of house receipts, viz: membership and rental. In 1908, $3090 was borrowed to meet expenses, and in 1913 none was borrowed.

461 members used the privileges; 48 men and boys were helped to employment; 132 men slept in the dormitories; 24 different organizations held 66 meetings in the building with a total attendance of $800; $2,509 was the total attendance at the building, while 1,533 attended the social events.

RELIGIOUS—35 boys were enrolled in the Bible classes and 17 sessions were held; 67 shop meetings with a total attendance of 3646.

EDUCATIONAL—13 Foreigners were taught to speak and read English. Several were assisted in getting naturalization papers, and the release of one man from Ellis Island was secured. In the summer vacation, the produce sold by them amounted to $37.66. The money was turned into the Y. M. C. A. treasury; a balance of $17.02 was divided among the boys, in proportion to the amount of their sales. Each day 48 newspapers and magazines are kept on the reading table.

Physical—249 members were enrolled in the gymnasium classes; the total attendance in the gymnasium was 7323; 1,451 baths were taken; 100 men and boys were enrolled in the Grade school Base Ball League and Tennis club; 237 boys enjoyed hikes and camps; 2 swimming exhibitions and three stunts nights were promoted. Two Basket Ball Leagues were run in the Junior Department. Two fine tennis courts were made on the Buckingham lots. The old bowling alleys were put into condition and were used by the boys during the winter months. The Newsboys were given the use of the swimming pool at various times during the summer months.

CONVENTIONS—We were represented at four conventions. At the International convention held in Cincinnati last May, we were represented by Messrs Randolph, Flory, Roberts, Flora, and Johnson. Those attending the Summerland Beach Conference from August 20 to Sept. 1, were Messrs Stephan, Evans, Roberts, Fred Glenn, and Johnson. Herschel Stephan, Frank Spencer, Orville Rawlings, Gaylord Mercer, and the Secretary attended the Boy's conference at Postoria last November. At the State convention held in Canton, Feb. 20-22, we were represented by Messrs Metz, Scott, Dickerson, Roberts, and Johnson. Very little of this expense was borne by the Association, only $25.95—a little more than the registration fees.

REPAIRS—The building has been kept in good condition, natural wear and tear excepted.

LUNCH COUNTER—We felt that the lunch counter was quite a success. The receipts for the four months the lunch counter ran, were $691.91, and the expenditures for supplies and help amounted to $604.12. All bills were paid when the counter closed April 11.

EMPLOYED OFFICERS—Within the year, the following persons have been employed by the Association: L. D. Roberts, J. H. Flora, Calvin Hazlett, Fred Glenn, George Wolfe, C. A. Harter, Mrs. Michelle, Mrs. Cranks, Leo Bayles, and Frank L. Johnson. George Wolfe worked in the office from Sept. until January. L. D. Roberts, has been with us now for two years. His place will be filled this fall by Wilson Galloway, a graduate of Denison of this year's class. Mr. Bayless came to us in January, but will enter Denison in the fall, taking a course preparatory to entering the Y. M. C. A. secretaryship as his life work.

FINANCES—The Treasurer's report, presented by Harry Scott, showed the receipts for the year to be $6844.60; $3056.65 of this was contributed by friends. The balance $3787.95, was earned at the building. The report showed also that there were very few outstanding bills, but that an interest account should be met soon. The report of the Budget committee, presented by Dr. Wyeth, showed that the budget had been planned to meet the needs of the coming year. $7800 is to be provided as follows: rentals, $2200; membership fees, $1500; towel rentals, $190; game fees, $125; educational fees, $50; miscellaneous, $100; subscriptions, $3035. $3369 of the subscriptions has already been pledged.

SPECIAL MENTION—The thanks of the Association is due to both of the daily papers, whose officers have always been ready to do any reasonable thing for the advancement to the Association work. Appreciation is also due the pastors to make the work more efficient, and whose fellowship has been an inspiration to the Association officers, who have co-operated in many ways.

And The Worst is Yet to Come.

REBELS WON FIRST FIGHT IN CAMPAIGN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Estacion, Amargos, Mex., May 19.
(Via El Paso, Tex.) May 20. Gen. Francisco Villa, leading 4,000 constitutionalist troops won the first important engagement of the Saltillo campaign May 17 when at Paredon he defeated 4,500 federals retreating from Monclova.

The federal troops were decisively beaten. Not only did General Villa administer a defeat but he thus prevented the arrival of reinforcements at Saltillo, which would have added materially to the defensive force of the objective point of the campaign. He also captured supplies which would have been of value to the garrison of Saltillo.

The Constitutionalists lost sixteen killed and 29 wounded. The federal casualties were 29 killed and more than eighty wounded. The constitutionalists captured 900 prisoners, nine pieces of artillery, 1,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, a large quantity of artillery ammunition and a large supply of provisions, in addition to five troop trains which carried the Huerta soldiers.

The federal garrison of Monclova numbering 4,500 had evacuated that town May 15 in five troop trains on the approach of Francisco Murguía, constitutionalist commander at Piedras Negras who was advancing from the south to attack. Warned by Murguía and his scouts that the federals under General Charles Alzarez Guardiola and Munoz were attempting to consolidate their forces with the Saltillo garrison, General Villa prepared to receive them at Paredon, dividing his forces into three columns, the center one of which he led in person.

As the first two troop trains at 10:45 a. m. May 17 steamed into the trap prepared for them Villa swung forward his three columns simultaneously. The constitutionalist attack was brilliantly executed. In forty minutes the federals were dead, wounded or prisoners scattered in flight, leaving their ammunition and provisions behind them.

The cavalry dismounted and acting as infantry swept the federals with their fire. As the federals swarmed out of the cars and took up positions in open order along the railroad track they were met by a withering volley. For a time they faced the hail of bullets stubbornly and sent back an effective fire but the men under Villa and his brigade commanders, Maclovio Herrera, Trinidad, Rodriguez, Reoul Madero and Perchea were not to be denied.

MEDIATORS

cess of efforts to adjust the whole Mexican situation seeing difficulty in the apparent unwillingness of the constitutionalists to participate, nearly all are agreed that one of it will come a better understanding of the part the United States intends to play.

The opinion is freely expressed that even if the effort at mediation does nothing more than make clear to the world at large and particularly to the republics of central and South America the spirit in which the American government has entered upon the solution of the Mexican problem the conference at Niagara Falls will prove of lasting value.

ATTENTION OF OFFICIALS IS TOWARD CANADA

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 20.—With the stage set for the beginning of the Niagara conference late today, officials in administration and diplomatic circles here turned their attention to proceedings in the Canadian border town, which, it was hoped, would result in complete settlement of Mexico's ills. President Wilson was to keep in close touch with the progress of negotiations by means of a special wireless set up between the White House and the headquarters of the American mission at Niagara Falls.

Justice Lamar and former Solicitor General Lehmann are familiar with the president's general view of the Mexican situation, but they will submit all important questions to him before they take any action on the proposals of the South American envoys.

Reports that practically all the federals defeated at Tampico had left that territory without attempting to damage oil wells and news that the constitutionalists had refrained so far from attempting to levy forced loans at their first seizure, relieved a menacing situation.

That the constitutionalists had renewed their active campaign south of Torreon, was indicated in reports of desperate fighting before Saltillo, Villa's next important goal. Details of the movement were lacking, but one report stated the constitutionalist military chief had defeated 5,000 federals at Paredon, and captured large quantities of arms and ammunition.

EAST SIDE OF THE PUBLIC SQUARE

ROOSEVELT

of his son Kermit, he expects to devote to politics, most of his time until November. Already a tentative plan of action has been mapped out. Col. Roosevelt has in mind one of the longest campaign trips he ever made, taking him from the Atlantic to the Pacific and several shorter trips in nearby states.

By 3 o'clock today he was in his library, a great quiet room on the ground floor of the old house on Sagamore Hill. He paced the floor and dictated letters and telegrams at top speed to the stenographer who he had summoned from New York. His desk was piled high with messages from all parts of the world inquiring as to his health and informing him of political conditions. For the ten days before he sails for Europe Colonel Roosevelt has mapped out a program which will keep him busy. His present desire is to get back in touch as soon as possible with the affairs of the progressive party in all parts of the country and help to start the machinery for the coming campaign. Before he left South America, he planned his work, arranging by cable for conferences with leaders of the progressive party. The first of these was set for today.

George W. Perkins of New York, chairman of the National executive committee, and O. K. Davis of Washington, secretary of the committee, were expected at Sagamore Hill to give Colonel Roosevelt a report on the situation.

Colonel Roosevelt already has made appointments with progressive leaders of several states. One of the most important of these conferences will deal with the situation in Pennsylvania, where Col. Roosevelt expects to make a hard campaign this fall. Within the next few days the Colonel will see William Draper Lewis, dean of the University of Pennsylvania, who was nominated for Governor at yesterday's primary and Gifford Pinchot, the candidate for United States senator.

E. A. Van Valkenburg, publisher of the Philadelphia North American and William Flynn of Pittsburgh, both of whom were prominent in Col. Roosevelt's 1912 campaign, also will attend this conference.

Walter Brown, of Ohio, chairman of the national organization work of the Progressive party, will come to Oyster Bay to tell of the outlook in his state.

Colonel Roosevelt will go to his editorial office in New York tomorrow morning and will spend most of the day in meeting political associates.

At that time he will confer with the New York state leaders. The address of Colonel Roosevelt is to be made before the National Geographic Society in Washington and has been set for next Tuesday evening. It is in this address that the Colonel will make the first formal announcement of his discovery of a river in Brazil.

The Wilson administration's attitude in the controversy with Colombia over the Panama canal was criticized today by Colonel Roosevelt. He objected strongly to the payment of what he termed "black mail" to Colombia.

"In submitting to this," he said, "it is just as though some future President of the United States should apologize to a successor of Huerta for the seizure of Vera Cruz. As for the payment of $25,000,000 to Colombia—here the Colonel threw up his hands—"well, that is unthinkable."

Col. Roosevelt expressed himself as strongly opposed to the repeal of the law for the exemption of American coastwise ships from payment of Panama canal tolls. He said he thought it perfectly right to arbitrate the question, if the rights of the country to grant exemption were questioned, but declared that to yield the point was unequivocally without reason was indefensible as he was convinced that the United States was within its rights of freeing coastwise ships from payment of tolls.

When he goes to Washington next week, he said, he will be ready to refute statements of Henry Savage Landor of England, and others who have expressed doubt as to the correctness of his statement that he had discovered a great river in the wilds of South America.

"The river is still there," said the Colonel with a laugh. "It was not like climbing an unexplored mountain or going to the North Pole, for such expeditions leave no traces which are there a year later. But nobody can go down there and roll up that river and see it for himself. I will give him the address of the owner of a rubber plantation who will furnish river men for the trip. The lower third of the river is easily navigable and anyone who doubts the existence of the river may go down and see for himself."

The Colonel went on to explain why he made the trip to South America. "I wanted to do something more," he said, "I was getting to the age where I felt that if I was to do anything requiring unusual physical exertion I must do it now. In fact, I was just a little over age but I put it through."

Colonel Roosevelt said that it was pretty hard going for a few weeks. Rations ran short and they got down to eating monkeys, which, the Colonel declared, could hardly be considered a delicacy. However, he said, at about that time he was hardly well enough to eat anything.

Colonel Roosevelt reverted to affairs in this country long enough to speak of the testimony in Washington yesterday of Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railway. He said that when Mr. Mellen went to him to discuss the merging of the New Haven with the Boston and Maine he told him that so far as he was concerned he would have no objection provided the merger came within the law. He said that he sent Mr. Mellen to Frank K. Lane, then of the interstate commerce commission for information on that point. "But I told Mr. Mellen that if the merger could be accomplished and the law should be violated he must not 'come back'."

The Colonel protested that he felt as well as ever.

"That is," he said, "I'm going to be as well as I ever was."

He said that the return to a northern climate had caused him to have chills but that they were not serious and that he was feeling entirely fit.

Wiggs—"Oh, there are lots of people who say just what they think." Wagg—"Yes, they are perhaps more numerous than popular."

"Stick to your ideals," admonished the critic. "Yes, if you can afford to have your pictures stick to you," replied the cynical artist.

Contest Time Limit Is Extended to June 10; Coupon Sale Stops June 5

Scores of Booklover contestants have protested against the limited time allowed for the purchase of extra coupons and the submission of solutions. Many have claimed that the Advocate had no right to bring the contest to a close so quickly and that the limited time does not permit the careful study of the pictures. Others have pointed out the fact that they are very busy with house hold or business cares and that they could not get their coupons ready in the time allowed.

The Advocate has from the beginning of this big contest of wits endeavored to do exactly the right thing by every contestant and the flood of mail that has poured in upon the contest editor since Thursday morning makes the Advocate sure that a reasonable extension of time will be fair to all and of injury to none. Inability to promptly fill all orders for coupons today is another reason for extending the time.

The time limit for obtaining coupons was previously set for Monday, May 18, and announcement was made that solutions would be received from May 19 to May 30. In order to comply with the wishes of a great many contestants who have by letter or in person made the request, the Advocate announces an extension of time. Coupons may be obtained up to 6 o'clock on Friday evening of June 5. Orders received up to that date and orders bearing the postmark of June 5 will be accepted. Solutions may be submitted up to 6 p. m. Wednesday, June 10, 1914. Solutions postmarked June 10 will be accepted. The correct answers to the pictures will positively be published beginning June 11 at the rate of about ten each day until all 70 shall have been printed.

This extension of time will work no hardship upon any contestant and will give those who have only a limited time in which to study the pictures and fill in their coupons sufficient opportunity to do the work.

Remember, please, that coupons may be obtained up to 6 p. m. Friday, June 5, and that every solution must be submitted by June 10. Contestants are requested not to send any solutions to the Advocate before June 1.

ANNIVERSARY OF FAILURE OF SAVINGS BANK

RECEIVER OF BUILDING ASSOCIATION KEPT FROM MAKING SETTLEMENT.

Institution Will Finally Pay Nearly 85 Cents On Dollar—Bank Paid 95 Cents.

Ten years ago today occurred the failure of the Newark Savings Bank, and the Homestead Building Association, which created a furore in the city seldom equalled before or since, as the failure involved people of all classes, who had dealings with these institutions. A brief resume of the history of the failure will undoubtedly be of interest to many.

W. G. Taafel was appointed receiver of the bank, and George P. Webb, who had been the association. Both are now dead and their places were taken by Attorney A. A. Stasel and Joseph N. Pugh.

Mr. Stasel wound up the affairs of the bank in the most satisfactory manner, paying off nearly 100 cents on the dollar, while Mr. Pugh has paid dividends aggregating 80 per cent. for the building association and is ready to make a final settlement amounting to nearly 85 per cent as soon as a suit now pending in the courts is disposed of, between the receiver and the American Bonding company, of Baltimore, Md.

This litigation began nearly ten years ago. In July, 1904, Receiver Webb got instructions from the court to begin suit against Mary J. and Robert F. Lingafelter for $16,000, which he claimed they had wrongfully taken from the association, and at the same time an order of attachment was issued against the property of the defendants. The receiver obtained a bond from the American Bonding company, intended to indemnify the Lingafelters from any loss sustained by reason of the attachment proceedings, double the amount of the claim.

The suit was determined against Robert, but in favor of Mary Lingafelter except about $600 court costs. She then brought suit against the receiver, (now J. N. Pugh) for $4,200, making the bonding company a co-defendant, on the ground that the attachment had been wrongfully obtained by the receiver. She at-terward dismissed the receiver, but pursued the bonding company alone.

This case was decided in Common Pleas court in favor of the company and the same finding was made by the Circuit court of Appeals.

The bonding company then presented to the receiver a statement of expenses incurred in defending the suit of Mrs. Lingafelter, amounting to $480, basing their claim upon the written application made by Webb, as receiver, for a bond, in which application the receiver had agreed to save the company harmless from any loss or expense sustained by executing the bond.

Receiver Pugh refused to allow the claim, and suit was brought and is now pending in Common Pleas court. It will probably be taken up to the court of appeals, however, the lower court decides the issue, and as soon as it is determined the receiver will make his final settlement.

Don't Make Too Much of the Monroe Doctrine

Dr. CYRUS NORTHROP, President Emeritus University of Minnesota

OUR attempt to make this government responsible for the good order and humanity of every nation in the western hemisphere is a job that is too big for us. There are South American republics capable of looking after their own welfare and the welfare of their neighbors, if need be. There are Argentina and Brazil, for instance. We must not make too much of the Monroe doctrine.

AS FOR MEXICO, THE SITUATION THERE IS SIMPLY HORRIBLE. IF VILLA SUCCEEDS IN CONQUERING HUERTA IT WILL BE TERRIBLE. IF HUERTA SUCCEEDS IN CONQUERING VILLA IT WILL BE TERRIBLE. IF EITHER ONE IS LEFT IT WILL BE BAD, IF EACH SWALLOWS THE OTHER IT WILL BE BETTER.

You never can tell. Many a barefaced lie is told by a man with whiskers.
